"The Scene," Wharf Street jazz club, is going to stay in business.

Gary Nixon and Glenn Ship-ton, fourth-year arts students at Victoria University, have formed the Varsity Jazz Society to take the club over.

They hope to bring a new era of "big-name" entertainment in Victoria.

They have bought the furnishings of "The Scene" from the Progressive Jazz Society and signed an extension of the lease for another nine months.

"After that time we hope to have bigger quarters," said Mr. Nixon, who is president of the new society.

There will be no break in performances at the club. It runs today and Saturday as usual, with Prof. Tony Emery reading poetry to music. The following weekend, the new group takes over.

"We are going to continue as a jazz club on Fridays and Saturdays, with big-name artists and orchestras," Mr. Nixon said.

"We also hope to use the club for plays. We are at present negotiating with Tony Nicholson's dramatic group."

A "Save the Scene" jazz concert will be held at the Fox Theatre at 9 p.m. Dec. 11. Proceeds will go towards bringing top-line talent to Victoria.

Lots of Talent

"There is a lot of talent that comes to Vancouver that never even comes here, and a lot of talent that gets to Seattle and never even comes to Vancouver."

"We plan to bring some of those big names to Victoria."

Gary Nixon is the son of Bernard Nixon, owner and manager of the Fox Theatre. Gary and a group of associates are going to operate an art theatre in Vancouver, starting Jan. 1.

Programs at the Vancouver theatre—the Cambie at Broadway and Cambie—will include

Under the Stars

Mr. Nixon's group is also planning to bring the artists from Vancouver's former Theatre Under the Stars here.

"The Shakespearean group which is playing 'Romeo and Juliet' in Cambie Theatre in Vancouver in February will come here to continue their run at Victoria College auditorium. A Victoria actor, David Allan, will play the leading role."

Mr. Nixon is guaranteeing the expenses of the Shakespearean group. He says that the bulk of profits from this presentation and from programs at "The Scene" will be set aside toward the hiring of further talent.

Membership in the Varsity Jazz Society is open to everyone—whether university students or not. A membership drive is to be launched. Patrons of the jazz club need not be members, but members get a reduction in admission charges to concerts.

"Operations of the club will not be confined to 'The Scene,'" Mr. Nixon said. "We'll use larger quarters for concerts by such artists as Victor Borge, Mori Sahl and Dave Brubeck, and bring them to 'The Scene' afterwards."

Rail Ban

Tough Chief Waits

OTTAWA (CP)—A mild-mannered but tough-talking man who nurtures roses in his backyard sat in the Commons galleries Thursday—watching and waiting for Parliament to ban a railway strike set for Saturday.

He is Frank Harold Hall, king-pin of the 15-union team that planned to call some 111,000 railwaymen off their jobs this weekend unless Parliament ordered them not to strike.

Mr. Hall lives in Montreal in a small bungalow in a middle-class suburb where he loves to grow roses. He is the father of two sons and a daughter. One son is a professor doing medical research at a Texas university, the other a chemistry engineer with an American oil firm.

"I'm a free enterprise man," he once said. "I admit there are shortcomings but it still offers a better share of the rewards for everyone, for both industry and workers."

Few Clues In Hunt For Girl

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI)—The grief-stricken parents of a missing co-ed yesterday attended her slain boy friend's funeral and offered a $1,000 reward for information helpful in locating their daughter, dead or alive.

Pretty Beverly Ann Allan, 19, a sophomore at Washington State University in Pullman, is believed to have been kidnapped from a lover's lane last weekend and possibly killed by the slayer of slayers of Larry Ralph Peyton, also 19, Portland.

The reward was offered by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Allan of Port Townsend, Wash.

The reward offer was announced as funeral services were held for young Peyton who authorities said was stabbed to death while apparently trying to protect Miss Allan.

Sheriff Francis Lambert yesterday ordered a house-to-house canvass of the sparsely populated Forest Park area where the slaying occurred in hopes of turning up clues. Outside of the blood-stained car in which the body was found and its contents, no solid clues had developed.

Late Wednesday a woman's moccasin was found in the brush not far from the slaying site but the girl's parents told officers it did not belong to Beverly. Two other possible clues, a note asking for "help" scrawled in lipstick on a restroom wall in Eugene, and a blood-stained knife found near Hillsboro, have been dis-

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A Washington skin specialist produced evidence at the American Medical Association meeting yesterday that drugs in some cases can make black people white or white people black.

someone,

New look in market baskets

Shopping day is now fun day for many Canadian families with a new Falcon wagon to carry the load. Supermarket, pharmacy, department store, garden centre,—you can fit them all into a single trip, fit all the cargo into the Falcon's flat, 7½-foot-long loadspace. For quick errands, you don't even have to lower the tailgate. Just wind down the rear window, set the bundles inside, and that's all there is to it.

Work done, the Falcon wagon's a pleasure car again. Six people ride in solid comfort, as the Falcon wagon takes to the open highway with the same smooth ride and easy handling that Falcon sedans are famous for. Plenty of lively power in the standard Falcon Six or the optional 101-horsepower Special Six. Plenty of economy, too—up to 35 mpg... up to 4000 miles between oil changes... not to mention that low initial price. See the Falcon wagon at your Ford-Monarch-Falcon Dealer's soon. There's no better buy in market baskets anywhere!

Your Good Health

Many with 'Heavy Cold' May Have Pneumonitis

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, MD

"Dear Dr. Molner: Please explain pneumonitis.—A. P. S."

Pneumonitis is a term you hear much more frequently now, and will continue to, I'm sure.

It is not necessarily pneumonia, although it may be. Pneumonitis is a general term for inflammation of the lung.

Hence pneumonitis is a form of pneumonia, but not its only form. A few years ago, before antibiotics, when pneumonia was "captain of the men of death," it was usually caused by the pneumococcus germ.

Since this is a germ, and a virulent one that spreads rapidly, it usually involved a whole lobe or more of the lung. This was "lobar pneumonia." If it involved both lungs, it was "double pneumonia."

Before the antibiotics, pneumonia ran a typical course, and about all you could do for the patient was nurse him carefully and try to maintain what strength he had. There wasn't much that could be done to halt the germ's progress. Either the patient had enough inherent strength to overcome the germ, or he didn't have it and died.

These days lobar pneumonia is not often seen. True, the pneumococcus is still around, and perhaps always will be. But when true pneumonia develops, antibiotics quickly attack the germ's invasions. That is why so many thousands of people live today who otherwise would have died.

It is more common now to encounter infections of the lung caused by viruses, which do not respond to antibiotics the way bacterial infections do.

However, such infections are of a spotty nature, often confined to one lobe, and they do not as a rule approach the massive involvement that the classic pneumonia did.

Indeed, patchy and comparatively minor pneumonitis occurs quite frequently, as we are now learning. This is especially true with the common cold—a hard cold, that is. A chest X-ray might show that many a person walking around, feeling weak and miserable, with a heavy cold, would be found to have pneumonitis.

When pneumonitis is prolonged, then it behooves the doctor and patient to look for some deep-seated cause. And do not forget this: True pneumonitis remains deadly. Treated early, it can be conquered nine times in 10. Untreated, it is just as bad as ever.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Our young grandson has been wearing canvas shoes, and the skin of his feet is peeling off. Do you think it could be caused by the shoes, or something else? —Mrs. A.B."

The shoes could be too loose. Possibly he gets sand in his shoes. It's also possible that he is sensitive to rubber in the shoes, especially if he doesn't wear socks.

More Whites in Classes, Mothers Scream, Kick

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Shoving and kicking women—angered by a crack in their pupil boycott at integrated schools—vented their spleen Thursday on a university student, a reporter and a minister's dog.

Six white children attended classes at William Frantz School, centre of this week's disturbances, in contrast to the two who attended Wednesday.

Screaming insults, picketing housewives manhandled Sydney Goldfinch, a Tulane University student, saying he led recent downtown lunch counter sit-in demonstrations. They shoved and kicked him.

'JEW, NIGGER-LOVER'

"Jew, nigger-lover," the women taunted as police took the youth—son of a Baptist minister—to a squad car.

"I hope you have a bunch of mulatto grandchildren," yelled one woman.

Police ordered reporter Jerry Hopkins of the New Orleans Times-Picayune out of the area. Women demonstrators accused Hopkins of hitting them with a camp stool.

REPORTERS KICKED

Several reporters were kicked or shoved. No one was arrested.

Yelling women thronged around the home of Rev. Lloyd Foreman, a Methodist minister whose daughter attends William Frantz kindergarten. Police kept them off the minister's lawn.

Tunnel Pace Saves Dollars

Reluctant to borrow millions of dollars at a time of high borrowing costs and comparatively low civic growth, the Greater Victoria water board sees no reason to change its policy of proceeding slowly with the Sooke Lake water tunnel.

Three thousand feet of tunnel was made last winter, and commissioner Ronald Upward told the board this week that "next summer we will have the money to line the tunnel, in the portions that need it, as far as it has gone." He advocated doing "a little bit each year as we get the money."

High Winds

Blizzard Snarls Terrace

TERRACE (CP)—Terrace residents struggled yesterday with after-effects of a two-day blizzard that turned roads, to sheets of ice, knocked down telephone wires and caused a heavy rush on garages and fuel.

Heavy snow driven by winds of over 50 miles an hour continued for almost two days. Winds were the highest recorded since last January.

Department of highways workmen at one point were unable to spread sand on the roads surfaces as fast as the wind was blowing it off.

Of 20 out-of-town telephone lines, 10 were out of commission at the height of the storm.

People or Politics?

IT IS difficult to understand the reason for Mr. Lester Pearson's last-minute move to block the government's legislation prohibiting a national railway strike, particularly as such a large segment of the Liberal press has been so loud in its praise for Mr. Diefenbaker's action.

There is, of course, little doubt that the legislation will pass in face of all opposition combined, due to the overwhelming majority of the Conservative Party. In view of this it may well be that Mr. Pearson sees the situation as a glorious opportunity to gain some labor support for his party without having to pay off in deeds.

Such a move is not worthy of the Liberal leader, for it is no time to play politics when the country is facing a national emergency.

The fact to which Mr. Pearson now suddenly objects is that the legislation will impose a compulsory wage freeze upon the railway employees. This is true, but the government has never hidden the fact. If the bill is enacted all wages will remain as they are now until May 15. But, it is also important to note that the prime minister has firmly stated that such action will in no way affect the employees' bargaining position.

The legislation will accomplish many things: mainly, it will keep the railways running at a time of the year when the country is most dependent on rail transport for its livelihood; it will keep upward of 400,000

Canadians in employment—Canadians who do not necessarily work for the railways but whose jobs depend on their operation; and, finally, it will leave the door wide open for negotiations to continue between the railways and the employees.

If Mr. Pearson's surprising action had real teeth in it, it might have resulted in the whole country grinding to a stop, throwing hundreds of thousands out of work and crippling our economy.

What other alternative did the government then have? Only to call upon the taxpayers to pay the non-operating railway workers their wage increase. This, according to the CCF and the New Party, is what should have happened. However, no matter how legitimate the unions' demands are—and it must be said here that they have a good case—it would be a dangerous precedent to set.

Such action would immediately establish the proposition that the government can solve every future industrial wage dispute by simply subsidizing the business concerned so that it can grant its employees pay increases in order to stop a strike.

Taxpayers are shouldering a heavy enough burden now without being called upon to take on even more.

Mr. Diefenbaker's action was courageous. It may cost him votes, but he has acted in the interests of all Canadians and has averted a national calamity.

Condemned Before Trial

IN the case of Adolf Eichmann the world is being treated to the most extraordinary exhibition of trial outside the court that has yet been witnessed. If ever an accused person was publicly condemned in advance of trial, Eichmann is that man.

Purporting to be the memoirs of Eichmann himself, articles which have appeared in the United States magazine Life have unquestionably created in the minds of readers the conclusion of guilt.

Yet Eichmann, whatever he may have been and whether or not the "confessions" were in fact his, has been convicted of nothing. It is noteworthy that the purported memoirs are stated to have been compiled from interviews with Eichmann before Israeli agents in violation of international law abducted him from Argentina.

If Eichmann did indeed make the statements attributed to him it was while he was at liberty in South America. It is conceivable that the alleged confessions if they were made were uttered in a spirit of bravado. Everything charged against Eichmann by Israel has yet to be proved, including the vital point of identity.

A Graceful Farewell

RETIRING Labor Minister Lyle Wicks left the city this week with a graceful word on his lips. It does him credit. It is the measure of a man who suffers political defeat and loss of his cabinet post that he can accept these setbacks with equanimity.

Mr. Wicks expressed his thanks to all those departmental colleagues, industrial and labor officials, with whom he was associated during his eight years as provincial labor minister. This courteous gesture will be reciprocated with good wishes for his future welfare and remembrance of the zeal he brought to bear while responsible for one of the most difficult portfolios of all.

One other parting comment by Mr. Wicks is perhaps worth noting, or at least the press cannot in good conscience let it go unnoticed. Mr. Wicks paid special tribute to the media of communication—newspaper, radio and television—on which the public depends for its information about provincial affairs. He was grateful for the "co-operation and fair treatment" that had been afforded him.

This is refreshing. Politicians are more prone to find fault with the press unless they are shown always in a favorable light, and to accusations of "misquotation". Public men sometimes speak with unawareness of exactly what they are saying, and this is the real root of those seemingly hurt cries of "misinterpretation." Mr. Wicks for one does not agree with them.

The former labor minister also added a word of praise for the newsmen whose duties ally them closely with government—the press gallery. He commended them for a "consistently high standard of reporting" and said that B.C. was fortunate in being served by an "alert press." That will be appreciated by the reporters who do their best to keep the public well informed.

One might be excused for hoping that Mr. Wicks' opinions are taken under advisement by other officials. Whether or not, however, Mr. Wicks has left a nice taste behind, all the more pleasant because it is none too frequent.

Interpreting the News

Peace Moves in Algeria

By ALAN HARVEY, Canadian Press Staff Writer

DON'T let word get around to Nikita Khrushchev or Mao Tse-tung, but international communism—strange as it seems—could be a peace-promoting factor in Algeria.

The prospect of Russian and Chinese intervention, probably more imminent now than ever, is so distasteful to Tunisia and other countries bordering Algeria that they would do almost anything to avert it.

The new mood apparently includes strong support for an Algerian solution reached directly between France and the rebels.

Tunisia, along with other former French territories in Africa, is believed to be pressing the rebels to take a less intransigent stand. These countries may make their presence felt in the United Nations, where France fears an adverse vote on the Algerian issue.

Nigeria is also believed putting out quiet peace feelers. The highly respected leader of the newly independent African state, Sir Abubakar Balewa, is understood to have discussed Algeria with British ministers in London this week.

Moderation is Sir Abubakar's great virtue, and moderation is desperately needed now. Distaste for the futile Algerian war has seldom been more pronounced.

But, as always, extreme calls to extreme—the rebels have launched a new series of bombing outrages, and the extreme Europeans have naturally vowed vengeance.

There is a feeling in Paris that it cannot last much longer.

WHAT next year's census has in store for us I don't know, although there was a suggestion some time back that a few rather personal questions might be asked. A census is primarily a count of heads but statisticians love to collect all sorts of stray data by the way, and racial origin and related details always loom to the fore in these inquiries.

Well do I remember an older friend of former years who was always irked because census-takers refused to accept his nationality as Canadian. He was of Dutch extraction—allowing that one traced his ancestry for about 200 years—but he stubbornly refused to call himself other than Canadian and authority was equally stubborn in denying him such a status.

Finally he declared himself as Chinese and that, apparently, ended the dispute.

Canadian nationality has become more viable since then but I notice that down east they are arguing the merits of nation and race. There is no Canadian race, the pundits say.

Maybe not, in the sense that the amalgam is not yet complete, although inevitably if we escape the nuclear bomb there will evolve a Canadian race. The country won't go on forever describing itself statistically as a mixture of racial origins.

It is being suggested in addition that there is no British race, for instance, and that in fact there are only three basic races—Caucasian, Negroid and Mongol. This is too easy an anthropological outlook and it's not definitive either. One would have to plumb the human pedigree to an even more remote past, to the moment of single origin.

Whether you believe that we all derive from the Garden of Eden or had our much less complimentary beginning in a blob of plasma that crept out of the sea and on to land, the commonality of descent goes back to one entity. At least there is no hint that Adam had a brother or that two blobs of jelly came ashore together, perhaps sticking together for protection.

Caucasian hardly fits the bill, therefore, even if most Canadians are, anthropologically, of that ilk.

In fact and in spite of such hair-splitting, races have evolved into distinctive tribes recognized the world over. I should hate at any rate to tell Winston Churchill that he is not an Englishman or General de Gaulle that he is not a Frenchman, no matter what anthropologists or statisticians might think.

And race, as everyone knows very well, will out.

The volatile Latin, the phlegmatic Norseman, the dour Scot, the ebullient Irishman—these and other variations of the human species have separated themselves from the mass of olden times—or fused conflicting elements—so that today they proclaim their own characteristic racial traits and culture.

The original human stock has branched out but come together again in widely differing patterns. Essentially that is the story of racial development.

Canadians in time will follow suit. The pot is melting but when the contents are cast they will solidify into a separate mould. Maurice Richard and Gordon Howe represent differing branches of the Caucasian tree—as do Canadians of other offshoots—but they typify the forerunner of a tree of new and luscious species.

Already 90 per cent of the population is Canadian born, which is a good starting point for the emergence of a distinctive Canadian race.

Statisticians, like dictionaries, lag behind, but one day "Canadian" will be the answer to a racial question on the census form.

Fighting Among Themselves

British Labor Party Woes

By DUART FARQUHARSON, from London

POLITICIANS can and generally do draw whatever conclusions suit them from by-election results. The "little general election" in Britain has thus provided comfort to all if joy to none.

The Conservatives have the best case for self-congratulation. After nearly a decade of uninterrupted rule the government has won an impressive vote of confidence. A few of the more luxurious Tory majorities have been trimmed but in retaining six seats the government looks more impregnable than ever.

But then no one really expected a swing against the Tories. The party that really cared about the seven by-elections, and on which public attention was focussed, was the Liberals. The "little general election" was to be the signpost to the future, the historic moment when the old party with a new face showed whether it could take over from Labor as the radical alternative to Tory rule.

The Liberals didn't quite prove it, one way or the other. Alone of the three parties they increased their vote in the seats they had contested in the last general election. In four constituencies out of six they ousted the socialists from second place.

So far so good. But in the seat that mattered most, the one they devoted the maximum effort to winning, they came a bad third.

It's all very well to come second in lush areas like Ludlow, Petersfield, Carshalton and Tiverton that will go Tory anyway. But when Frank Byers, one of the ablest candidates any party could produce, falls in a marginal industrial seat like Bolton East where representation in parliament is really at stake, it is clear that the Liberal revival still lacks a firm base.

If wise Liberals must temper their optimism it appears hard to see how Labor politicians can feel anything but deep pessimism. For them the by-elections yielded only one happy result. Mr. Michael Foot held Aneurin Bevan's Ebbw Vale with a majority of nearly 17,000 over the Conservative runner-up. This was 4,000 votes less than Mr. Bevan's majority last year. For many more to have forsaken Nye's memory would have been little short of Welsh treason.

Yet the socialists seem to have found some comfort even in the other six defeats. The attitude of many is "Of course we did badly but it could have been worse."

The plain fact is that Labor politicians are so busy fighting each other that they have little time to worry about outside opponents. They know, as they knew before the by-elections, that their popularity in the country is low. But they sincerely believe that the great intra-party controversies over defence and nationalization must be fought to the finish before the large battle can be seriously joined again.

Consumed by the passion of fratricidal strife the proponents of Labor's left and right have searched the by-election results for ammunition. The supporters of Mr. Gaitskell have been able to point out that the worst Labor defeat was suffered by a proclaimed unilateral nuclear disarmament in the London suburb of Carshalton. Conversely the Gaitskellite candidate in mid-Bedfordshire managed to retain second place.

The anti-Gaitskell faction merely has to point to Labor's majority in Ebbw Vale. Not only is Mr. Foot a unilateralist and root and branch socialist; his electoral campaign put as much emphasis on ousting Mr. Gaitskell as beating the Tory.

Because much of the future course of British politics will depend on the outcome of Labor's internal struggle for power the most important election was not in the country but in Westminster. Voting for their shadow cabinet the members of the parliamentary Labor party have given Mr. Gaitskell an overwhelmingly loyal set of lieutenants.

This is Mr. Gaitskell's third tactical victory since his pledge at Scarborough to "fight, and fight, and fight again" to overturn the party conference's decision in favor of Britain's unilateral renunciation of nuclear weapons. He has been confirmed as leader against the challenge of Mr. Harold Wilson by a two-to-one majority of voting MPs. He has Mr. George Brown as deputy leader to reinforce him.

Now he is ready for the strategic battle.

OF GREGORY CLARK

A MAN whom I considered for years to be the most conceited and pompous ass in the world lost his money and his job and every vestige of his former station of life. With all that, he should also have lost his lofty airs and graces. It was absurd of him to continue putting on the act. But even when he was a pitiable figure with literally nothing left in life, he was still the grandee. It became my duty along with two or three others to come to his rescue in the last couple of years of his life, and so I came to know him better and more compassionately.

I found that he had never in his life been putting on the act to impress others. He was impressing only himself.

In his private life he surrounded himself with furniture, books, curious antiques which he pretended had come down to him from distinguished ancestors. In the privacy of his own home, with no audience but himself, he would posture and strut and strike poses. If he was inausferable to those he had to contact in the real world, it was because he was living up to the character he had conceived for himself in the dream world in which he really dwelt.

We often err in thinking people are trying to impress us. They are busy impressing themselves.

Where Government Starts

(From The Winnipeg Free Press)

THERE seems to be no practical way, in a democracy, to overcome the mass inertia of the electorate when civic or municipal elections are held. A majority of voters appear to think that municipal government is not important—at least not as important as government at higher levels.

Nothing could be more wrong. Municipal government is where government starts. It affects us more directly and personally than any other form of government. Logic would seem to dictate, therefore, that we should be interested in securing for ourselves the best and most efficient government at the local level. But logic here loses out to laziness.

Letters to the Editor

In Midstream

The forthcoming by-election in Esquimalt-Saanich is of interest to your correspondent: principally because of the political "slumming" of the gallant Captain David Groos, DSC, a retired officer of the armed services, and now the Liberal standard-bearer in the constituency.

The captain has looked over the field—even to joining the Conservatives to give him a closer insight into the intrigues of that party. It reminds one of the saying: "If you can't beat them, join them."

Your correspondent left the armed services at Ottawa a "Liberal," only to retire in Victoria a "Conservative." It happened this way: A very old friend asked for a dollar, not saying what it was for. In no time I found myself a card-carrying Tory! Card No. 8-2287 signed by Mr. John Fox.

Am enjoying the change of party, as the Conservatives have done more for the armed services and war veterans than the Liberals ever did.

Changing parties in midstream is forgivable, only if one is not a candidate.

'Bad Form'

I note the article about Capt. David Groos in the Nov. 29 Colonist in which you referred to him as "Mister Groos." When an officer retires from Her Majesty's Army, Navy, Air Force or RCMP he retains his rank at date of retirement until he dies.

Ordinary common good manners demand that he be addressed by this rank, or referred to by it. It is definitely ill-mannered to refer to him as "Mister." True this was done by General Eisenhower when he became president of the United States, but surely this does not mean we have to ape the U.S. even to the point of bad form.

Please in future refer to him as Capt.-Groos. Even when he is elected to parliament he will become Capt. Groos, MP.

More Power to Merriman

I would like to express my appreciation of the column on outdoor activities by Alec Merriman. For the first time a regular item on the sports page interests me. Unlike other sports items, it is written in English, which makes things considerably easier for an "unorganized sport" fan.

Seriously, I think it noteworthy that Mr. Merriman has been the first to publicize the ruin gradually spreading along the Kennedy River road. Such scenes of beauty deserve to be preserved. More power to his elbow.

One Man Jailed For Six Months After Break-In

One man was jailed and three remanded to Dec. 8 for sentence in Saanich police court yesterday following a break-in and theft Nov. 14.

All four were charged with breaking and entering Elk Lake BA service station, 5499 Patricia Bay Highway, and stealing tools and cash to the value of about $650.

Robert Allister Borgal, 723 Yates, and Donald Richard Nelson, no fixed address, changed earlier pleas of not guilty to guilty when they appeared before Magistrate William Ostler.

Both were remanded to Dec. 8, as was Bela Plocza, who had previously pleaded guilty.

George Guraly, also of no fixed address, was sentenced to six months in jail for his part in the break-in.

Det.-Sgt. Joseph Armstrong told the court Borgal drove the men to the service station, and he and Nelson remained in the car during the break-in.

Two more break-ins were wrapped up with guilty pleas in city court by Robert Barry Jackson.

He admitted breaking into the provincial government's Douglas Building on Nov. 20, and the Victoria Social Club, 654 Yates, on Nov. 11.

Magistrate Ostler remanded him until probation reports have been completed.

Det. Walter Calwell told the court accused got into the Douglas Building by holding his coat against a rear door, and kicking in the lower glass panel.

Inside, he went to the cafeteria, and using tools from the kitchen, forced open a cash register from which he took $3, and a cigarette machine from which he stole $80.

On Nov. 11, Det. Calwell said, Jackson climbed the rear fire escape of the Lincoln Hotel and crossed over roof-tops to the Victoria Social Club, where he entered by breaking a skylight.

He had a cigarette machine half-open when he heard someone on the stairs, and retreated the same way he had come.

Charge against one of two city youths of taking a car without the owner's consent was dismissed in city court yesterday.

David Russell, 22, of 1411 Mitchell, and Douglas Steadman, 19, of 1016 Collinson, had pleaded guilty to the charge Wednesday.

When they appeared again yesterday, prosecutor T. P. Castro.

O'Grady suggested that, in view of his examination of the circumstances, Steadman might have pleaded not guilty if he had had legal advice.

Magistrate Ostler asked Steadman if he wished to change his plea, and when he did so Mr. O'Grady offered no evidence and the charge was dismissed.

In the case against Russell, Const. Fabian Pavelick of Colwood RCMP said he spotted a 1960 model car while on patrol shortly after midnight Nov. 30 near the Thetis Lake overpass. He turned to follow it and check its occupants.

Rounding a bend near Parson's Bridge, he saw the car rolling backward on the road. It was empty, its motor was cut off, its lights still on, and the right front door open.

He checked bushes nearby, and there found two youths and a juvenile girl.

Russell was remanded to Dec. 7 for a probation report and sentence.

Also in city court, Hans Kroenke, 703 Pine, changed an earlier plea to one of guilty, for allowing a dog to run at large. The animal, a large German Shepherd, had knocked a child down on a street near the Kroenke home.

Magistrate Ostler noted there had been numerous complaints and four warnings issued about Kroenke's dogs.

Magistrate Ostler gave him until Dec. 15 to dispose of the animals before handing down sentence.

Failure to comply with Fire Marshal's Regulations in installing oil heaters and chimneys brought fines to two men in Saanich court yesterday.

Harold L. Roberts, operating as Roberts Sheet Metal, 1105 North Park, was fined $10 on each of three charges: Southall's Heating Ltd., 833 Balmoral, was fined $10 on a single charge.

AGRICULTURE MINISTER HAMILTON

Hamilton Offers Plan

Farmland Tree Crops Solution to Surpluses

WINNIPEG (UPI)—Federal Agriculture Minister Alvin Hamilton yesterday outlined a massive land conversion plan which he said would be the first step in solving Canada's agriculture problems.

Mr. Hamilton told the annual meeting of the Manitoba Farmers' Union that 8,000,000 acres of Ontario farmland will be converted to tree farming to meet pulpwood demands and this in turn will benefit Prairie farmers.

He said the conversion would afford more opportunity for livestock production to move West.

The problem of taking care of farmers while their first crop of trees was growing would be solved in a number of ways, Mr. Hamilton said. Those living near cities would, at a minimum investment, turn their natural farm beauty into resorts for city use.

Urgent Plea to John D

Defer Dam Plans, Says Interior

By THE CANADIAN PRESS
An urgent plea to defer final consideration of plans to dam the Columbia River system has been sent to Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

The wire, sent by CCF member of the legislature George Hobbs on behalf of Revelstoke, its chamber of commerce, the Nakusp chamber and other organizations in his Revelstoke constituency, is one of a growing number of protests in the interior.

The protests are mostly concerned with the High Arrow dam across the lower Arrow Lakes, one of a series of dams in the multi-million-dollar Columbia Hydro-electric project agreed to by the United States, British Columbia and Canada.

RISE 40 FEET

The dam would raise the level of the Arrow Lakes 40 feet and would flood settled land.

On the same night the Kelowna Chamber of Commerce passed a resolution asking the federal and provincial governments to defer immediately any commitments for construction of the High Arrow until complete information is made available to the chamber and communities affected.

SERIOUS EFFECTS

Mr. Hobbs' wire said "many aspects of the proposed treaty (between the U.S. and Canada) have serious and prejudicial effects on the economy of Canada and B.C. and destroy vital Canadian and B.C. equities."

He said representatives could meet the prime minister in one or two weeks.

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker said yesterday anyone who wishes will have an opportunity to make known his views on the proposed Columbia River power treaty at a public hearing to be held under British Columbia water rights legislation.

South Electoral Switch Could Give Nixon Win

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago Tribune says a survey of unpledged Alabama and Mississippi electors indicates a movement is afoot to wrest a crucial bloc of electors in the United States south from President-elect Kennedy.

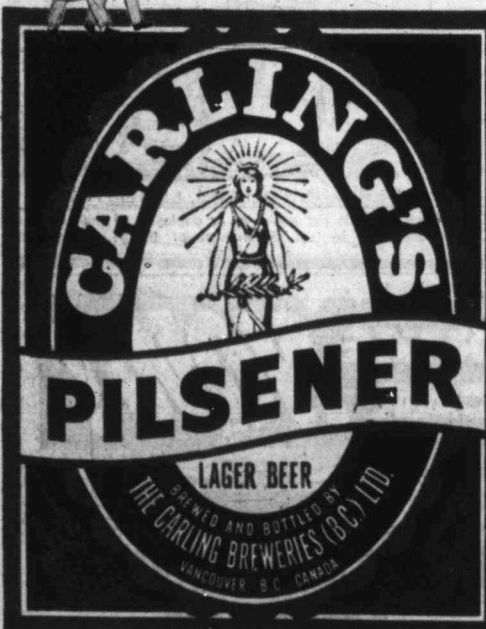

If this electoral bloc—numbering 46—were to swing to Vice-President Nixon, the defeated Republican candidate would have exactly enough electoral votes (269) to be president, the Tribune says.

If the bloc did not swing en masse to Nixon but withheld its votes from Kennedy, the election would be thrown into the House of Representatives.

Septic Tank Suspect Arrested

NEW YORK—A former Seattle man, Guy Rockwell Muldavin, 37, was held in $50,000 bond yesterday in connection with the strange disappearance of his ex-wife and her teen-aged daughter. He was seized by the FBI in Greenwich Village and agreed to return to Washington.

Remains of human bodies found in a septic tank at his home there, and also in the Columbia River were presumably those of Muldavin's second wife, Mansarita Mearns Rockwell, and her daughter, Dolores Mearns, 18. They disappeared about April 1.

Muldavin is also accused of defrauding a Seattle woman of $10,000.

TORONTO—Joan Johnson Abiscott, a 27-year-old model, was granted a final divorce decree Wednesday. She made headlines earlier this year when she declared on a TV program she had acted as a paid co-respondent in divorce cases, then said later her story was a hoax.

LONDON—Moscow Radio disclosed yesterday that Marshal Andrei Grechko is acting as Soviet defence minister. It said nothing about the whereabouts of Defence Minister Marshal Rodion Malinovsky.

LONDON—The government Wednesday announced it will refuse entry into Britain of Second World War German air ace Hans Rudel, described as a leader of the neo-Nazi party in West Germany.

HOLLYWOOD—For the second time in their nine-year marriage, actress Ida Lupino and actor Howard Duff have separated.

HAMILTON—AM. James Murdoch criticized the board of control Thursday for laying aside several thousand dollars for Christmas decorations for the new $10,000,000 city hall when nearly 200 streets and sanitation department men have joined the city's 14,000 unemployed.

SAN RAFAEL, Calif.—Actor-writer Sterling Hayden, 43, won a modified court order to permit him to take his four young children to Europe to make a movie.

WASHINGTON—New York Governor Nelson Rockefeller said after a conference with President Eisenhower that the Republican party should depend on "collective leadership" to build its strength for the 1964 presidential election.

ST. LOUIS—It's another set of twins—the third in less than three years—for the George Bennetts. That brings their children to an even dozen, and papa has quit giving out cigars. "I can't afford it," he said.

KELOWNA—Magistrate D. M. White Thursday rebuked the press and radio for "sensationalism" in covering a murder and declared that "trial by press and radio has got to stop." He made his remarks at preliminary hearing of a murder charge against Ed.

Lumumba Aides Caught

LEOPOLDVILLE (Reuters)—Col. Joseph Mobutu vowed Thursday to "get" Patrice Lumumba as the army announced the arrest of two aides of the ousted premier. At the same time, President Joseph Kasavubu announced that he has demanded the recall of United Arab Republic diplomats here.

As for Lumumba, who gave Congolese troops the slip Sunday and vanished from his closely-guarded residence here, an official said troops would be sent to arrest him.

FIERY SPEECHES
The Associated Press quoted reports from the Congo's interior as saying Lumumba is making fiery speeches promising to set up a "truly independent government soon."

But his whereabouts remained uncertain.

AIDES ARRESTED
The two Lumumba aides arrested Thursday were his defence minister, Maurice Mpolo, and Senate President Joseph Okito. The disappeared from Leopoldville Sunday night about the same time as Lumumba.

Noting that Lumumba would have to pass through territory in which there are Ghanaian troops, Mobutu speculated: "Maybe he is hoping to get a plane from them."

READ WHAT FAMOUS SURGEONS Said About VIVISECTION

DR. HENRY J. BIGELOW, Professor Emeritus of Surgery at Harvard in "Surgical Anesthesia"

"A torture of helpless animals—more terrible by reason of its refinement and the efforts to prolong it than burning at the stake, which is brief—is now being carried on in all civilized nations, not in the name of religion, but of science."

"The law should interfere. There can be no doubt that in this relation there exists a case of cruelty to animals far transcending in its refinement and in its horror, anything that has been known in the history of nations."

"There will come a time when the world will look back to modern vivisection in the name of Science, as they do now to burning at the stake in the name of religion."

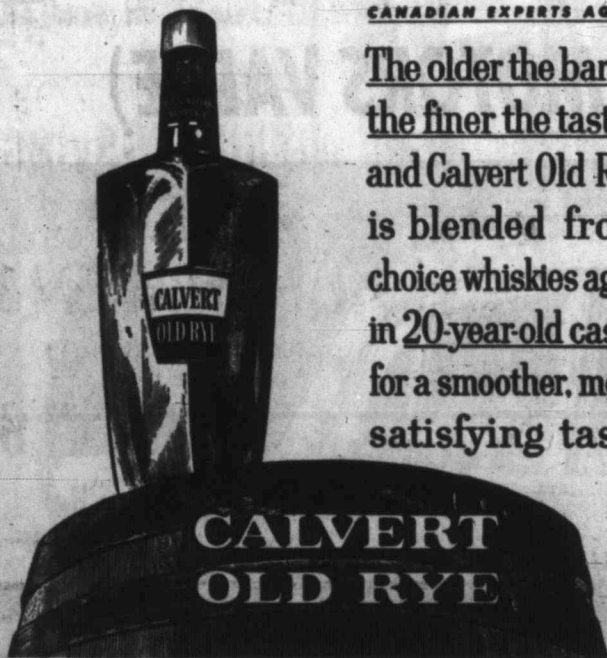

LAWSON TAIT, M.D., late Professor of Gynaecology, known as the father of abdominal surgery and one of the most brilliant surgeons England has ever produced. Lister's antiseptic methods were tried by Tait and found unsuccessful, on the other hand, the aseptic method which Tait advocated still holds the field.

"Vivisection as a method of research has constantly led those who have employed it into altogether erroneous conclusions, and the records seem with instances in which not only have animals been fruitlessly sacrificed, but human lives have been added to the list of victims by reason of its false light."

"Like every member of my profession, I was brought up in the belief that by vivisection had been obtained almost every important fact in physiology, and that many of our most valued means of saving life and diminishing suffering had resulted from experiments on the lower animals. I now know that nothing of the sort is true concerning the art of surgery; and not only do I believe that vivisection has not helped the surgeon one bit, but I know that it has often led him astray."

Business To Feast On News

OTTAWA (CP)—A massive array of trade knowledge and information will be served up, like a monster buffet dinner, at the government's export promotion conference here in the next two weeks.

The customers are numerous and hungry. The trade department's biggest worry is that the cooks might get tuckered out.

The cooks are the 111 trade commissioners brought home from abroad and officials said Thursday it's expected more than 1,000 Canadian businessmen will be streaming into the capital, starting Monday, to learn as much as they can about making new export sales in other lands.

RATES AND TYPES

The trade commissioners, backed up by trade department headquarters staff, are armed with plenty of brass tacks information, ranging from foreign tariff rates to the kind of export documents needed to get Canadian goods across foreign borders.

For would-be newcomers to the export field—and they make up one-fifth of the businessmen coming to the conference—the department has issued a new booklet outlining the information and services available.

Applications continued to roll in Thursday from businessmen wanting interviews with the assembled trade commissioners.

The round of conferences, to be held in an old wartime "temporary" building which the department vacated two years ago, is scheduled to start Monday and go through nine working days to Thursday, Dec. 15.

The period has already been extended once. Officials indicated Thursday they may have to add on still another day.

Avoid Butter Doctor Tells Heart Cases

TORONTO (CP)—Corn oil and margarine should be substituted for butter in the diet of patients who have heart disease, an Ontario doctor said Thursday.

Dr. J. M. R. Beveridge of Kingston told the annual convention of the Canadian Heart Association the conclusion was drawn after tests involving some 100 people.

He said the amount of cholesterol in the blood apparently is directly related to heart disease and fats of animal origin—as contained in butter—tend to increase the amount of cholesterol.

Cholesterol is a fatty substance popularly believed to contribute significantly to heart disease and is common in many foods. Researchers have found cholesterol in deposits in arteries of patients who are suffering from hardening of the arteries.

Seven Deny Perjury

NEW YORK (AP)—Seven former television quiz show contestants pleaded not guilty yesterday to perjury in denying to a grand jury that they received questions and answers in advance.

The cases of nine others, who have entered motions to test the legality of grand jury informations returned against them, were adjourned until Jan. 13 by special sessions Justice John M. Murtagh.

Pleading not guilty were Charles Van Doren, David Mayer and Ruth Klein, whose cases were set for trial on Jan. 18, and Patricia Nance, Terry Curtis, Henrietta Dudley and Patricia Sullivan, whose trials were set for Feb. 8.

NATO Plans Fast Force

PARIS (Reuters)—Gen. Lauris Norstad said Thursday plans were "being activated" for a NATO mobile force designed to act as a "fire brigade" to meet any emergency.

The NATO supreme commander described the proposed "fire brigade" as "a force consisting of basic combat elements of reinforced battalion level" with attached air force and naval units for great mobility.

Captain's Wife Safe

TRAVERSE CITY, Mich. (AP)—The captain's pregnant wife was taken off a storm-battered and rock-stranded Liberian freighter Thursday, but the skipper and his 12-man crew stayed aboard.

Mrs. Anastasia Trivizas of Corfu, Greece, was removed from the Francisco Morazan by a boarding party from the Coast Guard cutter Mackinaw.

Her husband's 246-foot ship has been aground off South

Manitou Island in upper Lake Michigan since being driven there by a fierce storm Tuesday night.

A marine engineer and an indemnity investigator were flown to confer with Capt. Eduardo Trivizas and Coast Guard officials on disposal of the stranded freighter.

Mourning Silences Chatter

Victims' Schoolmates Return

LAMONT, Alta. (CP) — High school students returned solemnly to classes here Thursday after being absent since Tuesday morning when a crash between a freight train and a school bus killed 17 of their classmates.

There was none of the usual chatter in the halls. The students filed silently into the school auditorium where principal William T. Worbes said: "We must conduct ourselves in such a way as to help alleviate the sorrow sustained by bereaved families and families of those still suffering."

and the driver of the ill-fated bus were injured. Dr. Morley Young, administrator of Archer Memorial Hospital, said last night four of those injured remained in critical condition and four more, including bus driver Frank Budney, 31, are in serious condition.

Nine of the high school students were on the "satisfactory or improved" list, and seven are awaiting discharge from hospital. Only one of the 42 persons on the bus was uninjured. Following the school's brief assembly, lockers and desks of the victims were cleared. Books and other possessions were boxed and stored.

It was a sad procession of students that arrived at the school Thursday. As the students left the buses, many of them looked two blocks south, to where the Canadian National Railway freight train knifed through the bus.

Thursday, each bus stopped before the level crossing and flicked on its red flashing signal lights before crossing the tracks. Insurance investigators took pictures and timed each bus.

The dead and injured students all came from the Chipman district, 10 miles south of Lamont, which in turn is 45 miles northeast of Edmonton. Schools at Chipman will remain closed until Monday.

A mass prayer service will be held at the community hall of the tiny farming community tonight.

Caskets of the 15 girls killed will be on one side of the hall and the two dead boys on the other.

Funeral services will be held Saturday morning in Chipman's Roman Catholic, Greek Catholic and Russian Orthodox churches.

A fund has been set up by the Chipman Lions club to provide artificial limbs for those requiring them and for medical expenses, which, in some cases, may continue for several years.

Golf: Fresh Air, Fun, Exercise—and Cheating

By OSCAR FRALEY
WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — The U.S. Golf Association can cop a plea but take it from the guys who play golf for a living that when it comes to amateur golfers they are 99 and 99-100 per cent impure.

Joe Dey, executive secretary of the ruling amateur body, said some time back that only about two per cent of the nation's golfers play strictly by the rule book. The interpretation in this corner was that, knowingly or not, this made 98 per cent of them fairway cheats.

"You were a little low because it's almost 100 per cent," says one pro who plays with the "cream" of the amateurs from coast to coast in the various P.G.A. tournament pro-amateur events.

The pros know. They watch in utter amazement as the amateurs do more double dealing than a crooked blackjack dealer.

"Not only that, in most cases they know they are breaking the rules," said one who naturally must remain anonymous.

"I told one man recently that it was against the rules to swap drivers after nine holes. His answer was a 'so what' which told me to mind my own business."

The rule breakers — and don't look shocked because you're probably one of them — most flagrantly:

"Fudge" or move up past the tee markers for their drives; change balls after driving over a water hazard or on reaching the green; put up with the practice of giving or accepting "gimmies," those short putts which even the dollar-hungry pros miss so often; ask advice on what club another player has used; exceed the 14-club limit and top it all off grossly by a shocking display of golf manners.

"They stand in each other's line and jitterbug and walk like elephants across the line over which another man has to putt," said one explaining the most frequent abuse of good golfing manners.

As for the scorned breaking of the "little rules," one pro, asserted that the purpose of the game is to strike the ball off the tee and put it into the bottom of the cup. That means the same ball, unless it is ruled unplayable.

"Go out on a golf course," said another, "and you can see how the conscience of the nation is going downhill. Maybe they are only 'little things' but in most cases the rules are being broken, knowingly, in what is supposed to be a game for gentlemen and sportsmen. If you are breaking the rules, why should your children live up to them in other walks of life?"

There is a famous band-leader who played in a pro-am tournament recently and hit his shot up to within two inches of the hole. He had a one-shot handicap so it meant a birdie for his foursome. He conceded himself the putt and picked up the ball.

"We don't get the birdie," adamantly said P.G.A. champion Jay Herbert. "You didn't hole out so your score doesn't count."

"You want me to putt that out?" the bandleader screamed indignantly.

"That's the name of the game," Herbert cut him off. The pros know that you can miss from even one inch. They have.

Arnold Palmer, golf's leading money winner, this year missed three putts from "inside" two feet. Bill Casper blew "five or six" from inside that range and he's one of the best putters in the game. And Bob Toski grimly recalls "fanning" a three-inch eagle putt to blow a tournament.

So if you've ever taken a "gimme"—and who hasn't?—you're in that 99-99/100 group which probably is actually a lot closer to a straight 100 per cent.

VIEWSON SPORT

By Red Smith

The late John McNulty, whose deplorable judgment of horseflesh forced him to write some of the most delicious literature of our time, told a story he vowed was true about Christmas morning in a pool room. John was a restless soul not galled for dawdling about the flat while the turkey roasted, so after the gifts were unwrapped he went out for a stroll, pausing to chat with the news dealer on the corner, ambulating past the bar and grill not yet open, wandering at last into the neighborhood horse parlor.

It was a typical establishment—in this corner a counter serving soft drinks and rubber sandwiches; a few dog-eared search sheets and forms on a table; a blackboard along one wall with the entries for Oriental Park, Tropical, and New Orleans, faced by two straggling rows of chairs; one wicket that was already doing a small business, for some tracks have a morning post on the holiday.

The patrons—well, John said, they looked exactly like the lot you'd expect to see in a pool room on Christmas morning. Surveying them with undisguised loathing was a giant and bitter man on a high stool in front of the blackboard, wearing earphones. Life had filled him with acid contempt for all horseplayers.

There was a small hum of conversation which ceased abruptly when the earphones cracked. The customers looked up expectantly at the man on the stool. He sneered back.

"They're off and running at Bethlehem," he said harshly.

Togetherness at Supermarket

Due to the state's repugnance for tax money, the summer racing season in New York closes Nov. 30, so there will be no racing on Christmas morning at Aqueduct. As the best thing, there was morning racing on Thanksgiving, with the gates open at 2 a.m., daily double lines forming at 9.30, and the first post at 11.

Deeply solicitous about their customers' family life, Aqueduct's sentimental operator felt that horseplayers should be free to dine with their got once a year, and consequently tried to get nine races off and everybody out of the joint by 3.15 p.m. A few more cuddly touches like this and Big A, hitherto called Hester Prynne's Supermarket, will come to be known as Togetherness Gambling Hell.

This business of wrenching horseplayers out of their beds in the middle of the night may seem cruel to some, but it is not without precedent in other sports. During the Second World War Bill Veeck, then operating the Milwaukee Brewers, experimented with early morning games for swing-shift defence workers.

At the gate each fan was given a breakfast ration of tomato juice and dry cereal with milk. In addition, upon taking his seat, he had the priceless privilege of seeing the fat farmer of Red (The Imposter) Smith asleep on a cot on the pitcher's mound, wearing a Cal Coolidge nightshirt.

Not to be outdone in consideration for the patrons' innards, the H. M. Stevens organization had marshalled its mighty force to start feeding the animals at Aqueduct at 9.30. Every year at Thanksgiving and Christmas the newspapers publish the holiday menu to be served in the jails and prisons. It seems only fair to do as much for inmates of the big Long Island kreal, who included some former and future residents of Sing Sing.

Bloody Marys Extra

Re it known, therefore, that from 9.30 on the grandstand restaurants offered a Thanksgiving Day Turkey Platter ($2.00) at all hours, the stable kitchen provided a Thanksgiving Dinner (on the New York Racing Association) for the guys on the back side, and there was a special brunch—called a Hunt Breakfast for obscure reasons—in the Clubhouse Man of War Room.

Clubhouse feeders chose from the regular a la carte menu or the following $2.50 table d'hôte:

Apple cider or orange juice or tomato juice; eggs Benedict or corned beef hash and eggs or shirred eggs and turkey hash; hot rolls; coffee, tea or milk. Bloody Marys extra.

Although handicapping the culinary entries probably ought to be left to the Food Editor, the top figure in this book goes to that turkey hash with shirred eggs. This has always been an honored staple among horsemen, especially as prepared in Kentucky's blue grass country.

Some years ago a member of the British peerage—it was either Lord Halifax or the Earl of Derby—was visiting in Lexington and a prospective breakfast host was concerned about the menu. His Lordship would want tea, of course, but did his taste run to kippers or kidneys or porridge?

"Give him turkey hash and hot biscuits," an Elkhorn Creek neighbor advised. "If he don't like that, he's a bum and the heck with him."

Longer Contracts, Bonuses May Avert Soccer Strike

LONDON (AP)—Britain's 92 big-time soccer clubs were asked Thursday to consider giving longer contracts and bigger bonuses in a move to head off the threatened players' strike.

Alan Hardaker, secretary of the English Football League, made the proposals in a report to the league's management committee.

Like Being in Forest

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Basketball competition at the 1964 Olympic Games may be conducted in two divisions—one for the short men and one for the tall, an official of the United States Amateur Athletic Union said Thursday.

"The Asian nations are pushing for a division at six feet," said Lou Wilkie, vice-chairman of the AAU basketball committee. "They want to play in a six-foot-and-under class and let the nations with taller teams play in an unlimited division."

"A Japanese player said it was like being in a forest, trying to play against the U.S. team,"

Missed Good Bet But Money Found

NEW YORK (UPI)—Mrs. Max Geller missed a good bet when she lost her money before she got to the racetrack.

Mrs. Geller of New Rochelle, N.Y., said her husband gave her $948 to bet on Bavard in the second race at Aqueduct racetrack Tuesday. But when she got to the mutual window she discovered she had lost the money.

The cash was found by William T. Martin in the racetrack parking lot and he turned it over to police. When Mrs. Geller claimed the money, she said she couldn't believe her luck.

She could have been even luckier. The horse she was supposed to bet on won and paid $12.50 for a $2 ticket.

Vikings on Road To Cage League?

Victoria University Vikings is that eventually Victoria will have a team in a set-up something like the present Evergreen Conference. For this reason Vikings have skipped competition in junior ranks this year for a shot at the more experienced American clubs.

They figure to have their hands full with Everett, led by 6' 7" Arnold Frank of Kimberley. Included in the lineup are one man 6' 5", three who stand 6' 4", and six others over 6 feet tall.

Only big men on the Viking first string are Darrell Lorimer and Ellery Littleton, both 6' 4", and Barry Sadler at 6' 2".

With the University growing at such a rapid rate, the hope

Howe Sets Scoring Record; Habs, Leafs in Big Brawl

Gordie Howe set an all-time National Hockey League scoring record last night, but the lowly Boston Bruins put a blight on the celebration by bouncing Detroit Red Wings, 3-2, to knock them out of first place.

Howe collected two assists in the third period to bring his lifetime league and playoff point total to 1,062, two more than the old record held by Maurice Richard of Montreal Canadiens. Howe, now in his 15th season, had already broken Richard's league point mark, and is the only player in history to score more than 1,000 points in regular-season play.

While they were making history at Detroit, they were making mayhem at Montreal, with Richard's little brother Henri at the centre of a last-period brawl that resulted in four major penalties, two misconducts and a minor.

QUITE A NIGHT

Henri, supposedly the quiet member of the Richard family, had himself quite a night. He scored two goals and set up another in Montreal's 6-3 victory over Toronto, and drew 29 minutes in penalties in a wild third period to become the league's bad man with a total of 69 minutes.

Richard drew a minor penalty early in the period and a misconduct for arguing about it. Then, at 16:22, he and Toronto's Frank Mahovlich renewed a feud that has been brewing since early in the season when the Leaf star was accused of deliberately shooting at Richard's head.

THREW PUNCHES

The two started throwing punches after Richard high-sticked Mahovlich. Before referee Frank Udvardy restored order some 20 minutes later, every player of both teams, with the exception of the goalies, had a hand or fist in the proceedings.

Richard drew a minor, a major and another misconduct. Mahovlich took a major and misconduct, and Montreal's Dickie Moore and Bob Pulford each were handed a major penalty.

Moore got his 22nd goal of the season, tops in the league, and an assist on one of Richard's goals for 34 points and first place in the NHL point race. Teammate Bernie Geoffrion had four assists for 32 points, and Jean Beliveau moved into a third-place tie with Detroit's Norm Ullman at 30 points with three assists.

Montreal got two goals from Marcel Bonin and one from Guy Gendron, picked up in trade from Boston Bruins on Saturday. Mahovlich scored his 17th goal for Leafs, with the others coming from Eddie Shack and Allan Stanley.

Montreal poured 47 shots at Toronto's veteran Johnny Bower, and at the same time got another steady effort from substitute goalie Charlie Hodge.

Hodge made 33 saves and Canadiens have won all three games since he replaced Jacques Plante. Coach Toe Blake says the 5'6" Hodge will be in the Montreal nets as long as his play warrants it, which indicates the wandering Plante may have his work cut out to get his job back.

At Detroit, Bruins scored their first road victory in 13 starts to drop Detroit a point back of the first-place Canadiens. Jim Bartlett put Boston ahead, 1-0, in the first period, and the lead stood up until 6:33 of the third period, when Howe set up Murray Oliver to tie the score and break the point record.

But Bruins, as they did in tying Chicago 3-3 on Wednesday, rallied strongly late in the period. Don McKenney scored to put them back in the lead and Charlie Burns made it 3-1 before Alex Delvecchio scored on a power play at 15:03, with Howe getting his second assist.

It was a night for power play goals. Three of Montreal's goals and all of Toronto's came with the opposition a man short.

Colonist Cup Soccer Final Goes Monday

Third game of the Colonist Cup city high school soccer final will be played Monday at 2.30 p.m. at Mount View High School.

Plans to have Mount View Hornets and Victoria High play the game Monday night under lights at Royal Athletic Park fell through when Vic High principal G. A. V. Thomson decided against putting a school team in a game on the night before a school day.

This has been something of an unwritten law in the past.

Officials who have watched the clubs play to 1-1 and 2-2 ties in the first games of the best-of-three series have done the next best thing and scheduled the game at 2.30.

This will give the teams time to play two regulation halves of 45 minutes before darkness sets in. First two games were played in 30-minute halves, and there was no time for overtime to decide either one because it grew too dark to see.

Should Monday's game finish tied, it would probably force a fourth game.

Philadelphia Comes Back For Victory

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Philadelphia Warriors Thursday night blew a 32 point lead but rallied to defeat Los Angeles Lakers 117-114 in the second game of a National Basketball Association double-header after New York snapped Boston's nine-game winning streak 116-111 in the opener.

The Philadelphia victory cut Boston's eastern dynasty lead to a half game.

In Cincinnati, a 35-point performance by Dolph Schayes helped Syracuse Nationals take the third straight season victory from Cincinnati, 137-126.

The Royals got 41 points from Oscar Robertson and 30 from Jack Twyman, but couldn't keep up the hot pace of the fourth quarter.

Wilt Chamberlain led the Warriors with 41 points while Paul Arizin had 26 and Guy Duggins chipped in with 20 assists.

Baylor was high for the Lakers with 28 points followed by Jerry West with 23.

This weekend calls for extra special safety precautions in the woods.

Deer hunting season ends Sunday and hunters will be out in full force in one final effort to bag that last deer. Bucks, does and fawns will be open game all over the Island Saturday and Sunday, which could mean some hunters will not look as carefully as they should before shooting.

"Let's all practice safety this weekend. Let's live to hunt another season and let's let someone else live to hunt another season. Just because you can shoot them this weekend, is no excuse to be careless when shooting does or fawns," advises Cliff Bate, president of the Victoria Fish and Game Protective Association.

If you are counting on that one last deer, the most productive area on the Island the last two weekends has been Northwest Bay grounds, but fish and game permits are needed to hunt that area.

Winter spring fishing has been fair to hot in Oak Bay waters the past week and at the weekend boats averaged one spring salmon a boat... and the average weight was 10 to 12 pounds. Inside waters of Discovery Island and Chatham Island and inside Trial Island were hot spots.

Bill Johnson brought in a 15-pounder, Charlie Guiguet got four. George Moore got four springs Saturday, two of them in the 18-pound class and Bert Thompson also had success. Large Strip-Teaser, eight ounces of weight, 60 feet of line, with or without flasher, did the trick for most anglers.

Commercial trawlers off Brodie Ledge have been getting 45 to 50 fish a day, but sportsmen found difficulty latching into them in that area at the weekend.

On Wednesday Henry Rollin landed two 16-pounders, a 12-pounder and a seven-pounder at Pedder Bay.

Becher Bay was hot for winter springs until Saturday when it dropped off somewhat. Some anglers are still catching them at the head of the bay, just off the log booms, according to Percy Brown.

Arnie Williams says the blues are running well in Smith's Bay at Crofton and small pink Kam Lures are proving the biggest killers, although any type of spoon with red on it has been productive. Hugh Menzies, who has been having good success with the blues, says they are running up to 14 inches.

Saanich Inlet winter springs have dropped off, but those still fishing have done well on grills. Ross Dong caught five jacksprings and several grills at the weekend around Senanus Island, but a fleet of Brentwood fishermen at Tod Inlet had little to report except grills.

Some steelhead are reported in the Cowichan, but there are no reports of anyone having caught them. Arnie Williams says there are too many dog-salmon in the river and would-be steelheaders are losing a fair amount of tackle to them.

Trout fishing at the upper end of the Cowichan River slackened off at the weekend and Verna Palliser of Palliser's Place opinions that the trout have gorged themselves on salmon eggs from the first heavy salmon spawning and are now a little sluggish and too full to worry about the salmon eggs flies.

"It happens every year, but after a few days they will be hungry again," she said.

The river has dropped several inches in the last few days, which should make for easier fishing.

Two more steelhead were reported from Campbell River last weekend, which makes it the only Island river now giving up the winter steelhead.

Lower Campbell Lake has been providing some fair trout fishing.

No winter steelhead have shown up in Alberni district rivers, but trout have been caught in the Stamp and Ash Rivers this week and Great Central Lake is fair on the troll. Behind the MacMillan and Bloedel gates in the Elsie Lake area some 300 fishermen and hunters brought out 400 trout, 15 deer, one bear and one duck.

In the Nanaimo district, Westwood, Brannan and Black Jack lakes are producing trout on bait and troll and in the lower Island area a few trout have been taken at Prospect Lake on fly and troll and in Shawnigan Lake on gang troll.

Unemployment Collapses Penticton Senior Hockey

PENTICTON (CP)—Unemployment muscled its way into the sports scene here and caused the collapse of senior hockey.

Penticton Vs. Allan Cup champions in 1954 and world champions a year later, disbanded and left the Okanagan League with only three teams—Kelowna Packers, Kamloops Chiefs and Vernon Canadians.

The Vs were the league's best drawing card this season, averaging about 1,000 fans a game.

Officials said the club could no longer continue because nine imports failed to find jobs to augment token hockey payments.

Immediate plight of the remaining teams will be decided "within the next two or three days at an emergency league meeting," said Bob Gilhooley of Kelowna, OSHL president. "It's a sad thing to see a town like Penticton fold," he said in Kelowna. "Penticton is the valley's best sports town. The Vs were winning their share of games and had the best attendance."

Gilhooley said both Vernon and Kamloops have indicated they will continue to operate in a three-team league.

"It depends upon the Packers now," he added. "They are

James Bay Big Threat

Oak Bay Reds, unbeaten in nine games this season, face what is probably their biggest threat of the Victoria Rugby Union Saturday at Macdonald Park.

Already cinch winners of the league title, Reds have won eight games and tied one with HMCS Venture. Saturday they play JBAA, a club rated as one of the league's strongest and just getting up to full strength. Injuries, and absence of players participating in other sports have hampered JBAA so far, and they have managed only two victories.

In other games Saturday, Oak Bay Whites play Venture at Windsor Park and Royal Roads takes on Naval Tech at Royal Roads. All games start at 2:30.

Opening Win

Esquimalt Dockers opened the new Inter-High School Junior Boys Basketball League Wednesday with a 57-34 victory over Royal Oak as Dave Russell and Al Lorimer scored 20 points each.

pretty shaky financially, too. But if they decide to keep going with three teams we can continue. If they fold it's difficult to say what will happen."

The Vs face an operating deficit of $2,000 and Wednesday a creditor obtained a court order against the team's bank account.

Calgary's Feared One-Two Punch Rugged Assignment for Cougars

George Agar isn't a coach who starts altering his forward lines each time his club has a bad game, but he is planning a switch tonight in tribute to the best one-two punch in the Western Hockey League.

"It has to be obvious," Agar says, "that unless those two fellows are held down it'll be tough to beat that club."

Those two fellows are wingers Lou Jankowski and Ron Leopold and that club is the Calgary Stampeders, who are leading the league mainly because of a potent attack in which Jankowski and Leopold are the kingpins.

TIED FOR LEAD

The two wingers go into tonight's game tied for the league scoring lead, each with 32 points. They both have 18 goals in 22 games and are well ahead of a pace which would break the WHL mark of 53 goals in one season, set away back in the 1949-50 season by Doug Adam playing for Tacoma Rockets.

Leopold and Jankowski have always had the knack of getting the puck behind goalkeepers.

Only 24, Leopold is playing his third professional season, all with Calgary. In his first two, he got 31 goals as a rookie, duplicated that exactly as a sophomore.

THIRD SEASON

Jankowski, a veteran of 29 with 127 NHL games behind him, is also in his third full WHL season. In his first, he got 45 goals in 54 games. Last season he "slipped" to 42 goals.

This season, both have been even more consistent than usual. Leopold has one or more goals in 13 games while Jankowski has scored at least one in 12. In only four games has the Norm Johnson-Jankowski-Leopold line failed to get at least one goal.

Johnson won't be playing tonight, having been put out of action until at least the first of the year when he dislocated a shoulder in Vancouver on Tuesday.

"It won't make much difference," says Agar. "They'll just put that (Gordie) Veprava in there and they'll be as hard to stop as ever."

This was proven Wednesday in Portland, when Jankowski scored twice and Leopold once as the Stampeders lost to the Buckaroos, 4-3.

To meet this challenge,

Agar says he will likely shift Doug Macauley to play alongside centre Doug Anderson and leftwinger Bert Fizzell and give this combination the task of shadowing Jankowski, Leopold and whatever company is given them at centre.

But Agar had other worries, chiefly Sid Finney and Wally Hergesheimer, a pair of veterans who gave Calgary another dangerous line.

Agar promised.

Stampeders played here on Nov. 1, and the result was one of the best spectator games of the season. The Stamps came from behind three times, the last time on a goal by Hergesheimer with only three seconds left to force overtime. Fizzell broke it up in the fourth minute of extra time with a spectacular goal for a 4-3 win.

If the Cougars can duplicate that game, they'll move past two clubs in the scramble that "We're just going to have to get out and skate tonight," Agar promised.

Big Games On Sunday

Standings atop the Victoria and District Soccer League could take quite a shuffling after weekend action.

Wests play Heaneys at Royal Athletic Park and Brodies Bakery travels to Nanaimo Saturday, but all of the interest is centred around two Sunday matches.

Victoria Evcoes, tied with Kickers for first place, take on Canadian Scottish at Heywood Park. The Scots are in fourth place, just two points off the pace. Meanwhile Kickers buck the tough defence of Saanich Thistles, who trail the leaders by only one point, at Reynolds Park in Sunday's other game.

Esquimalt plays Ladysmith at Central Park.

All weekend games start at 2 p.m.

Big Week for British Sports Rebels

LONDON (Special) — Last week was one of decision in British sport—decision that has failed to ease the tense "cold-war" relations existing between players and officials. Football players throughout the nation have set a deadline in their dispute with league officials and club owners. The MCC advisory committee has arranged a "truce" in the throwing controversy and suggested two major experiments for county cricket next season. Lawn tennis officials have banned the use of affiliated club courts for the new professional Kramer Cup competition; four Ryder Cup golfers have demanded greater control in running tournaments; boxing chiefs have issued a warning to the "syndicates," and the Eastman saga has come to an end. The footballers held the headlines in a turbulent week that threatened to drive many devoted sports fans to the peace and solitude of the lawn bowling green. It rivaled the tangled affairs of the Congo, in that few observers were able to keep abreast of swiftly-moving events. At emergency meetings in London, the midlands and the north, the nation's disgruntled footballers gave league clubs one month to meet their four-point demands. The London meeting did not rule out strike action if the demands were not met but at the other two meetings players were more definite: "agree to terms or we strike."

For the first time the 2,700 dissatisfied players clearly defined their demands—revision of player contracts; negotiation for a minimum wage and abolition of the maximum; a player's right to a transfer fee share, and joint consultations on transfer and other disputes. If the strike threat was not taken seriously in some quarters, it impressed the league and the Football Association enough to make the football brass treat the demands with some urgency. A new round of talks, new proposals and guidance by a ministry of labor conciliation team will be the last chance to avert possible serious action by impatient players agitating for a new deal. In the wake of the bitter deadlock were two ominous reports in the daily press. South African and Australian clubs were reported trying to lure dissatisfied "bread-and-butter" players with offers of full-time jobs and homes for families. Southern Football Club reported a deficit last season of almost $18,000 and a total club debt of almost $74,000—just one of more than 30 league sides badly in the red.

'Cold War' Continues

Rebel George Eastman of Newcastle won his contract dispute when he was signed by Arsenal for a transfer fee of close to $150,000. He won his freedom after a 20-week "strike" siege that may set a precedent for future struggles by players seeking the right to negotiate freely for a contract.

But the former Young England inside forward lost a fair packet in wages and received only $56 from the near-record transfer fee.

Cricket policy-makers took another step in an attempt to ease the threat of "war" between England and Australia next summer. They recommended to the M.C.C. that English bowlers suspected of throwing against the tourists before the "first test" be "booked" and reported secretly.

It was a parallel move to an early decision in which the M.C.C. agreed Aussie bowlers with suspect deliveries would not be called on the field of action. The referee will submit a confidential report to the parent body and the Australian team manager.

No provision was made for what action umpires will take in the first test on June 8 and in subsequent matches. It can only be presumed that they will call throwers under new interpretations agreed upon by the Imperial Cricket Conference—an agreement that threatens relations between the two major powers.

In new attempts to cure the ills of county cricket, leaders decided to abolish the follow-on and the right of the field-

Ben Hur Wins By a Sip

SAINT VINCENT, Italy (AP)—A new cocktail, packing the kick of a chariot horse and named Ben Hur, was awarded first place in a barmen's contest. Devised by Lazzaro Baglioni, it contains two-thirds vodka, one-third white vermouth, two drops of bitter campari aperitif, an orange rind and a cherry.

ELIZABETH TAYLOR

Magazines 'Hurt' Says Suing Liz

NEW YORK (UPI)—Actress Elizabeth Taylor and her husband, singer Eddie Fisher, arrived last night from Paris to begin a two-week rest in Palm Springs, Calif.

They said they would remain in New York overnight.

Miss Taylor, who had been painfully ill while in Europe, said she was "feeling much better."

The couple said there was no angle story which made them file a broadside suit totalling $7,250,000 against the publishers of a score of movie fan magazines Wednesday.

But Miss Taylor made it clear she was incensed over reflections she said were cast by the magazines on her as a mother and on her children. "Of course it hurts," she said.

"We have been thinking about doing this for a long time," she said of the suits. "It was an accumulation of things."

CONFIDENTIALLY YOURS

MONTREAL, Dec. 1st—The first stop on my Christmas Shopping Expedition is the BANK OF MONTREAL. That's where I can tick off some of these "difficult" names that used to give me so much trouble. Several people on my list are going to get holly-decorated B of M Christmas Gift Cheques or Money Orders—now "gift-wrapped" in their own gay folders and with B of M Savings Accounts. The Christmas looking Passbook Covers lend a cheery touch to this practical gift. Make "My Bank" your first stop when Christmas shopping... you'll save yourself time and trouble too!

COMPANY COMING TO DINNER? Then start them off with a special treat, hot chicken bouillon made with MAGGI CHICKEN BOUILLON CUBES. Such delicious chicken flavour and what a joy for the diet-conscious... only four calories per serving. I've found that Maggi Cubes add flavour magic to so many things. For instance, I add two or more Maggi Cubes to the boiling water when cooking rice, spaghetti, fresh or frozen vegetables. What a wonderful difference they make, so easily. Do shop for Maggi Chicken Bouillon Cubes soon, and in every twelve-cube package you'll find a sheet of magic flavour ideas and new recipes.

IT'S FRANTIC BUT LOADS OF FUN... preparing for the exciting Christmas Holiday family reunion. For one thing, I always stock up on AYLMER OLIVES, because they're the special added good taste of so many meals and moments. I use Aylmer Olives—Plain Queen, Stuffed Queen or Manzanilla—for formal or informal entertaining... to serve with drinks or a turkey dinner. And have you tried them sliced into buttered cracker crumbs to top baked scalloped tomatoes? Delicious! You'll find there's nothing quite like Aylmer Olives for flavour.

I HAVE GOOD NEWS for all who suffer from nagging arthritis, neuritic or rheumatic pain. So many letters from sufferers tell me that TEMPLETON'S T-R-C's have brought welcome relief from pain. Add now when you buy T-R-C's, you can have double assurance of fast, comforting pain relief. With your box of T-R-C's you will be given a Free Sample of FLAME-CREAM Liniment, a brand new Templeton medication for muscular aches and pains. T-R-C's taken internally and FLAME-CREAM Liniment applied externally, combine to provide you with Double Action for relief from pain.

Facts of Life Stymie Bid for Culture Centre

Proposal that the city and province buy property on Cathedral Hill for cultural purposes hit a barrier yesterday—money.

The proposal, made by the Victoria Symphony Society, Victoria Little Theatre and the Gilbert and Sullivan Society, seeks support for the purchase of an entire block bounded by Broughton, Quadra, Courtney and Blanshard and property across the road on Broughton.

"They didn't explain what we would use for money?" Mayor Percy Scourrah said yesterday.

Show Business

By Dick Williams

Bob Hope had to diet to play the part of the dapper Jimmy Walker, former mayor of New York. Walker was slender and Hope, while not fat, had never been a stringbean.

Hope dieted with determination, and after arduous, persistent effort he succeeded in paring himself down to 168 pounds. He counted every calorie daily.

In one scene Bob was required to take a stomach pill (Walker had chronic stomach trouble), and the shot was repeated nine times before it satisfied the director. Hope naturally became concerned about the pills he had downed.

"What are these horse pills, anyway?" he asked. "No-cals, I hope."

"No, but they're harmless," he was assured. "They're chocolate-covered peanut butter!"

Chinese Junks On Thames?

LONDON (AP)—The Thames, with its punts, oarsmen, swans and grimy barges, will take on a Chinese look if the plans of a Scottish engineer materialize. The engineer, John Johnston, plans to import 50 Chinese junks, with sails like the wings of dragon flies and ornamented with carved peacocks and Oriental dragons. The first junk to arrive was sold before it was unloaded.

Riding Safety Panel Topic

Horses, riding and safety will be discussed by three experts during a panel session at a public meeting at 8 p.m. today in the CCF Hall, Richmond and Cedar Hill Crossroad.

Dr. M. L. Olsen, veterinarian; Roy Jewell, farrier and trainer, and Bob Shanks, well-known horseman, will be members of the panel.

When Lovers Leap, Audience Roars

By BERT BINNY

St. Luke's Players' comedy production, "Lovers' Leap," should provide some stiff competition at the Dominion Drama Festival in the spring. At its opening at St. Luke's Parish Hall last night it gave the audience lots to laugh at. The play is not only funny but also logical. Inasmuch as festival adjudicators often leave their sense of humor, fun and entertainment at home, the fate of "Lovers' Leap," which is directed by Dorothea House, is rather problematical but it offers a relaxing and enjoyable evening.

Competent actress Evanne Murray played Helen Storer with her accustomed vigor and theatrical skill.

Barbara Grant as Sarah Trillie reflected the character of the happy, independent, self-possessed but very pleasant English girl at times brilliantly and at others dimly. Her affair with Cedric Norreys, an odd character played consistently well by Bernie Wachter, was meant to be much more an adventure than a romance, with Cedric himself much more a curio than a soul-mate.

The setting and effects were good. The pace was lively though some variation in it would improve the production. "Lovers' Leap" continues tonight and tomorrow evening at 8.15 at the parish hall.

Two Dogs in New Spaceship

MOSCOW (Reuters)—The Soviet Union's third spaceship, carrying two dogs, other animals, insects and plants, orbited earth Thursday night every 88.6 minutes. The launching coincided with the end of the three-week Communist "summit" conference. The successful launching early Thursday of the five-ton satellite was announced to Russians with a blare of trumpets by Moscow Radio and to reporters here and in the outside world by the official news agency Tass.

Details of the "other animals" and insect and plant life were not disclosed. Premier Khrushchev hailed the feat as "a great victory and a step to man's flight into space." Khrushchev said he did not know whether his scientists will try to return the space ship.

WITHSTOOD FLIGHT

Tass later reported that the animals in the spaceship "withstood satisfactorily" the flight into orbit.

Temperature and air pressure in the spaceship were "normal," the agency said.

The space ship moved in an elliptical orbit, with its closest point at about 117 miles and its most distant point about 166½ miles away, according to preliminary data.

TOO CLOSE

In West Germany, Bochum observatory head H. Kaminski said he thought the satellite would be brought to earth Friday because it was too close to the earth's surface and would get "too hot."

The dogs, Pchelka (Little Bee) and Mushka (Little Fly), were observed by Soviet tracking stations through radio-television and telemetering systems and were said to be weathering the flight "normally."

Details of the "other animals" and insect and plant life were not disclosed. Premier Khrushchev hailed the feat as "a great victory and a step to man's flight into space." Khrushchev said he did not know whether his scientists will try to return the space ship.

"Probably they will," he told reporters at a reception.

The last Soviet spaceship was launched during the trial of U-2 spy pilot Gary Powers.

Measuring instruments in the new satellite provide several means of gathering physical data on outer space. The radio and telemetering systems played back conditions of the living organisms.

Tass said instruments aboard the satellite were fed from chemical and solar sources of electricity.

'Pitlamps' Doom Herring

Legal "pitlamping" on a mammoth scale is again being carried out by British Columbia's herring fleet in Gulf Island and east coast waters.

Each seiner of the fleet of some 70 boats is equipped with a battery of 1,000-candle-power lights which are suspended over the water at night to attract herring to the surface.

Catches average from 50 to 100 tons for each boat. The fleet has been out for two weeks.

OLD LIGHTS

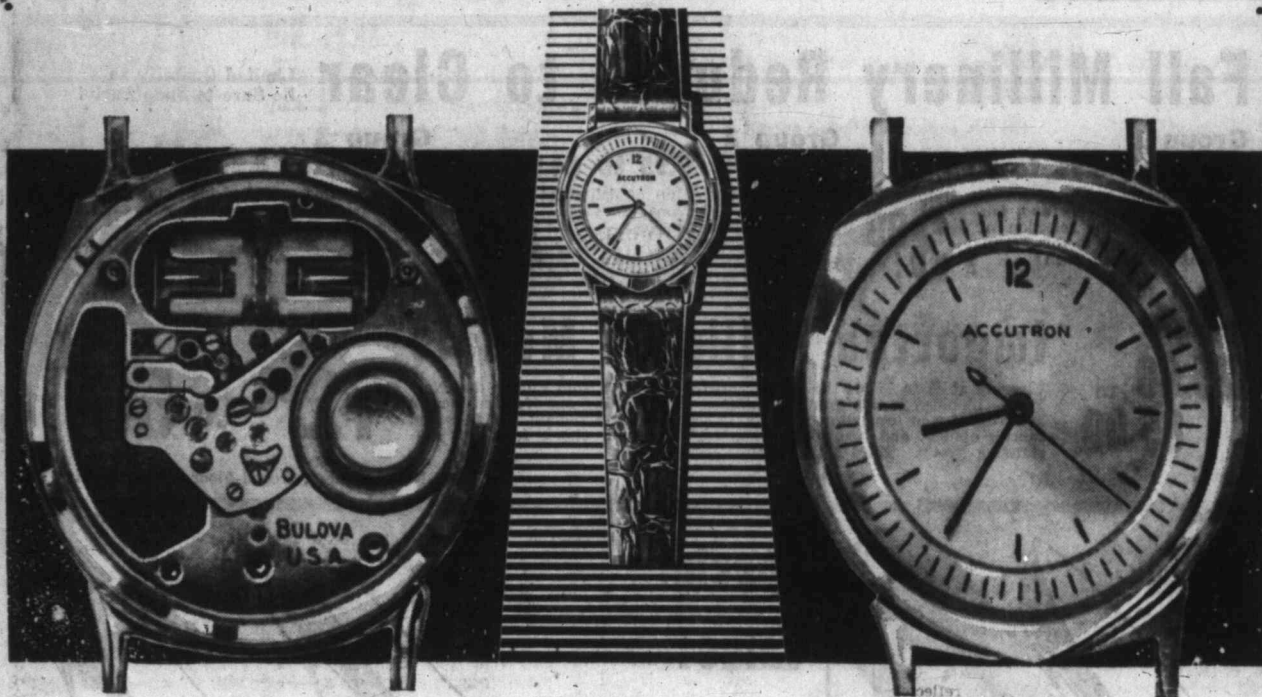

The ancient Romans used oil lamps in lanterns with side shields of thin, transparent horn.

THIS IS ACCUTRON[†]

It is the first instrument of the space age you can wear and use!
It is the first microsonic timepiece...It doesn't even tick. It hums!
It is the first timepiece ever guaranteed accurate on your wrist!

Guaranteed Not to Gain or Lose more than an average of 2 seconds a day in Normal Daily Use!

This instrument—the heart of a timing mechanism in a U. S. satellite—is now available as a timepiece you wear on your wrist. It is so accurate it carries a guarantee never before possible in the history of timekeeping. ACCUTRON is guaranteed 99.9977% accurate... not under laboratory conditions... but in actual use.

Developed after 8 years of research, ACCUTRON is guaranteed for one full year not to gain or lose more than two seconds a day on your wrist. Based on expert opinion of conventional fine-watch performance, ACCUTRON is 10 times more accurate.

The new ACCUTRON timepiece is more dependable, too. Built to withstand the shock of a rocket launching, it has fewer moving parts (12 as compared to 29 in a self-winding watch), so it will require far less service than conventional watches, and it never needs winding.

The secret of its microsonic accuracy? A high-precision tuning fork takes the place of the springs, balance wheel, and many other moving parts. (No conventional or electric watch operates without a balance wheel.) Oscillating 360 times per second, this tuning fork produces a low hum, quieter and totally different from the tick-tock of the usual watch. This is the new sound of accuracy.

The single tiny power cell in ACCUTRON lasts over a year... costs only $1.50... and you replace it as easily as a lighter flint.

Each ACCUTRON timepiece is an exquisitely fashioned piece of jewelry. Priced from $225 to $2500, they will be sold only at authorized Bulova jewelers. Remember—the same scientific knowledge and skill that have made ACCUTRON the world's most advanced personal timepiece... make every Bulova a finer watch.

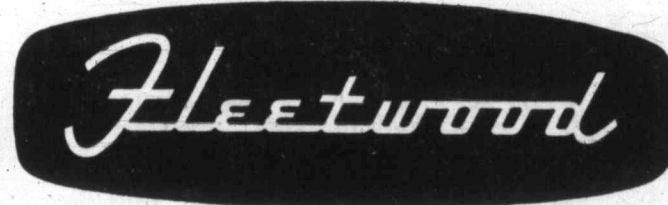

Look for this symbol of your authorized Bulova ACCUTRON jeweler.

Citizens Back
Kiwaniis Villa

KEITH BICKMORE

Seen in Passing

Keith Bickmore on his way to a classroom at Gordon Head Junior High School where he teaches mathematics and social studies. (He and his wife Sheila and 11-year-old son Jackie live at 586 Marfield Avenue. His favorite pastimes are cricket and soccer.) ... Brock Henry saying he would phone later ... Jerry and Cynthia Sinnott visiting friends ... Herb Pigot sitting at a desk ... George Flinnington carrying the mail on Gorge Road ... Robert Coward skinning a deer ... Walter Norbury, Sr., sighting in a .22-calibre rifle ... Mary Skinner weighing a parcel ... Alf Cool showing a customer a car.

Greater Victoria warmly endorsed a senior citizen housing project by contributing generously during last night's porchlight drive.

Preliminary count following the two-hour drive by 1,600 canvassers showed a total of $22,357.

Kiwaniis Village Society officials said "canvassers did a terrific job" and "received wonderful reception in all districts."

WINTER WORKS

The money will be spent on a winter works project, Kiwanis Villa, which will provide housing for 32 single, elderly persons.

"It is enough to ensure completion of the project," said a spokesman.

Persons who wish to contribute but who were missed by canvassers can telephone campaign headquarters today at EV 6-5712. They can also mail donations to Kiwanis Campaign Office, Jones Building, 723 Fort.

ADVANCE DONATIONS

Officials were surprised earlier in the day by the large number of elderly persons who came to the office with advance donations. "It was very encouraging," said one of the organizers.

A Strathcona Trust for B.C. cash award will be given the 2483 Esquimalt (Princess Patricia's) Cadet Corps tonight at 8 p.m. in the Work Point barracks drill hall.

Seismograph
In Service

A newly-installed seismograph recorder at the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory registered its first earthquake yesterday—from a point about 220 miles to the west of Vancouver Island.

The foreshock hit Victoria at 12:46 p.m., followed by the main shock wave at 12:50 and aftershock waves at 1:50 and 2:06 p.m. Intensity of the shock was 4½ to 5 in the Richter scale.

A visible record is traced on special paper tape by a heated wire in the new recorder. The tape can be inspected even at the time a quake is occurring.

The observatory still uses a photographic recorder which throws a fine point of light on sensitized paper as it is slightly more precise but slower than the new mechanism.

Public Victim
In $400 Deal

Victoria business officials have received complaints about salesmen selling two-year supplies of powdered milk with a blending machine at a cost of up to $400.

Salesmen have told Victoria residents that the machine—which includes a number of attachments—is worth $239.50 retail. Victoria appliance dealers have valued the machine and attachments at about $125 retail.

A number of persons who signed contracts are believed to have refused to pay and returned the machines.

Council Urged to Renew
Heliport Site Reservation

City council finance committee yesterday recommended seeking a five-year renewal of a reservation of property in the Victoria West industrial reserve for possible heliport use, although aldermen saw a diminishing likelihood that a heliport would be established there.

A $14,000 contract has been awarded to M. P. Paine Company by Col. R. O. Bull for the Boys' Club for alterations to the old Yates Street firehall to provide club quarters.

DUNCAN — South Cowichan Taxpayers Association will hold a public meeting to hear candidates running for school board office at Cobble Hill hall on Monday starting at 8 p.m.

A letter sent by the group's president, Ken McAllister, to H. R. MacMillan of MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Company, said Vancouver Island views "which great residents and tourists are not forest and green belt, but largely fields of stumps and untidy second growth."

"As an example of what we have not done let us look at California's Redwood Highway with its parks and campsites through primeval Redwood giants."

Logged countryside on the island is an "economic problem in terms of living quality, recreation, tourism and erosion," the letter read.

"The Conservation Council would ask both your company and the provincial government to find a practical way, without delay, to hold as much of the forest as possible in a natural state along our new highways."

Christmas Gift for Esquimalt

$50,000 Under Tree!

Esquimalt ratepayers will be given a $50,000 "Christmas present" by the federal and provincial governments—grants towards the costs of constructing the municipality's sports arena.

Both senior governments have approved the scheme as part of the winter work program. The money will be used to provide improved facilities in the arena.

Reeve A. C. Wurtele said last night $50,000 is a conservative estimate of grants expected from the two governments. The money will be used to purchase more land to improve the siting of the arena, a banquet hall, complete kitchen, spectator windows overlooking the curling rink and other improvements to the original $400,000 design.

The work, which began this week, will keep some 30 men employed during the winter months. Completion date is June 1 next year.

Safe-Driving

Crash
Mars
'Week'

Safe Driving Week was only 10 minutes old when Greater Victoria had its first traffic accident of the week.

At 12:10 a.m. yesterday cars driven by Nicholas Lyster, 240 Helmcken, and Harold R. Hansen, 1905 Mayfair, collided at Bay and Government.

No one was injured, but in city police court yesterday morning Lyster pleaded guilty to driving while impaired. He was fined $250, and his licence was suspended.

First accident involving injury occurred at 8:55 a.m. on Douglas at Speed, when cars driven by Keith J. Ross-Jones, 209 View Royal, and Walter B. Burgess, 2126 Spring, were in a rear-end collision.

City police took Mr. Ross-Jones to Royal Jubilee Hospital but he was allowed to go home after X-rays of his back and neck.

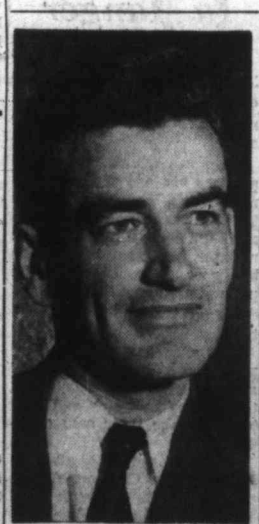

Scurrah
Ottawa
Bound

Mayor Percy Scourrah will lead a small delegation to Ottawa soon to see if federal help can be obtained in providing off-street parking in downtown Victoria.

When he was last in Ottawa, the mayor said yesterday, he discussed the possibility with Public Works Minister David Walker, and since then he has had "some encouraging correspondence."

City council, meeting formally in the mayor's office, authorized him to go to Ottawa and he is expected to be accompanied by a representative of the Victoria Downtown Business Association and perhaps a Chamber of Commerce delegate.

Ald. Hugh Ramsay:

'Drastic Action' Due
In Arena SituationCommission, Council
To Meet SaturdayMICHAEL J. GRIFFIN
... energetic

Time has come for "immediate and drastic remedial action" to clear up the Memorial Arena situation, Ald. Hugh Ramsay said yesterday after city council called for a meeting with the arena commission.

The meeting, arranged for 10 a.m. Saturday, may or may not be public. That decision will be made, Mayor Percy Scourrah said, by council and the commissioners when the meeting begins.

MAYOR'S OFFICE

In informal session in the mayor's office yesterday, council decided to ask the commission to meet it "for the purpose of exploring new information that has been brought to council," the mayor said.

"My whole stand in a nutshell is this," said Ald. Ramsay, chairman of council's arena committee, afterward. "This thing has gone on far longer than it should have, and has assumed major proportions, and it's time for immediate and drastic remedial action."

CLEARED UP

"In the interests of the arena, all the employees, and particularly the city taxpayers, the whole situation should be cleared up the fastest way possible regardless of the action required so that normal operation of the arena can be continued."

"I think the time has come when council has to take leadership to resolve this unfortunate situation which should have been cleaned up weeks ago."

SECOND LOOK

Council's decision appeared to indicate a "second look," occasioned by new information, at its vote of confidence in the commission a week ago.

The vote of confidence was given, according to arena commissioner Courtney Haddock, after five aldermen at a meeting the night before were informed that "they had better express confidence in the commission or the commission would all resign."

FAIR TREATMENT

Ald. Ramsay based his participation in the vote largely, he said, on the fact that Commissioner Courtney Haddock had withheld his resignation after being assured six former employees would be fairly treated. "Fairly treated," Mr. Haddock has said, "means to my mind getting their jobs back," but the six have not been re-employed.

Ald. Rev. J. L. W. McLean also has expressed increasing doubt about the vote of confidence.

No reply was forthcoming yesterday from the commission to Mr. Haddock's statement calling the treatment being given the six ex-employees "completely shocking and grossly unfair."

But Mayor Scourrah said he had been informed that the commission would be making a statement today.

DUNCAN—Cowichan high school industrial arts teacher F. E. Cummings has received congratulations from the Cowichan school board for winning a merit diploma from the department of education.

Last Hour Entry

Seat on Council

A last-hour entry yesterday brought the number of candidates to 11 for four city council seats.

Michael John Griffin, a 37-year-old plumbing firm director, filed his papers about half an hour before nominations closed.

Others in the race:

Ald. Austin Curtis, railway general agent; Ald. Arthur Dowell, company president; William C. Hudson, retired; Samuel Lane, hotel proprietor; Elgin Neish, commercial fisherman; Charles M. Nelles, apartment house operator; Cecil M. Parrott, retired; Sarah Jane Rogers, housewife; Alfred W. Toone, labor organization secretary-treasurer; and Victor W. Williams, real estate salesman.

TWO CANDIDATES

The only two candidates for school board seats, Trustees Mrs. E. M. Maunsell and Ralph Fryer, were elected by acclamation.

Mr. Griffin, like Mr. Lane, said a Colonist editorial calling on energetic young businessmen to offer themselves to civic service had been largely instrumental in his decision to run.

Crash Victim
Sent Home

Marjory Gavel, 568 Yates, injured Nov 14 in a fatal car crash on the Malahat, was released yesterday from St. Joseph's Hospital.

Killed when a car skidded out of control and crashed on Tunnel Hill were James Percy, 730 Violet, and Douglas Hartlen of Nova Scotia, both crew members of the icebreaker HMCS Camell.

Totems-While-U-Wait Pitch
Urged on Noted Indian ChiefCapital Notebook
By Peter Bruton

PRODUCTION LINE: Education Minister Leslie Peterson suggests that Indian carvers Mungo Martin and Henry Hunt, who have a lean time spinning out their $7,500 provincial government allocation every year, could possibly come up with a unique and profitable tourist promotion.

His idea: carving small models of authentic totems for tourists on a while-you-wait basis.

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Readers: Thanks to all who wrote to comment on the letter from the wife who complained bitterly because her husband drowned everything in catsup. I had no idea the subject was of international interest.

That letter provoked an astonishing response—mostly sympathetic to the wife.

Here are some samples:

From Miami: You were much too easy on that vulgar, catsup-craving lout who went so far as to put catsup in his martini! I'd buy three bottles, all right—and break them, one at a time, over his fat head. After slaving to season the meat to perfection a man who would devour delicious food in catsup deserves to be crowned.—PERFECTIONIST.

From Sandusky, Ohio: If my old man drowned a $2.40 beef tenderloin in catsup I'd buy dog food for him and pocket the difference.

From Oklahoma City: That catsup addict is a former Navy man—I'd bet my bottom dollar on it. We called it Red Eye and it covered a multitude of kitchen sins!

From Nassau, Bahamas: The woman who is teed off because her husband is a catsup fiend has high-class worries. My husband keeps emptying bottles around here by the sackful—but it's not catsup he's crazy over. It's bourbon. I'd be happy to trade troubles with her.

From Charleston, W. Va.: I'd give him catsup all right—one tomato at a time!

Dear Ann Landers: I dated a boy in the service when he was home on leave. He asked me to write to him and I agreed.

His very first letter floored me. It was full of poetry and passion. If my dad had gotten hold of that letter I would have just died. The odd thing is, Ann, I gave him no reason to write a letter like that. In fact, I never even let him kiss me.

I answered in an impersonal way, hoping he'd take the hint. His second letter was as mushy as the first. Before I had a chance to reply he wrote a third letter—even more intimate.

This boy is nice, and he's a gifted writer, but I don't want any more love letters. I've heard boys in the service are sensitive and I'd hate to crush his spirits. Please tell me what to do.—NAN.

Dear Nan: If you can get the point across with a little humor, it will be less painful. Tell him his letters are a fire hazard and you must read them with asbestos gloves. Ask him to continue to write—but less like a sweetheart and more like a friend.

WHAT'S COOKING

By LOUISE MOORE

A reader says she's looking for meat dishes that won't run away with the budget—and who isn't these days?

We can't have sirloin roast or a sizzling steak that pulls the pocketbook apart. But we can have a pot roast or a barbecued steak that lacks nothing in good flavor and is comparable to the best there is in beef if properly cooked.

Here are two favorites:

Select a round steak of about 1½ lbs. and 1 inch thick. Season ¼ cup flour with 1 tsp. salt, ¼ tsp. pepper and ¼ tsp. paprika.

Place in ovenproof casserole or in Dutch oven. Top with ¼ cup chopped green pepper, 2 medium onions sliced, and 2 tbsp. sliced stuffed olives.

Combine 2 tbsp. of the olive juice, 2 tsp. sugar and 1 can tomato soup. Pour over the meat. Cover tightly with lid or aluminum foil and bake in moderate oven (350) about 2 hours or until meat is tender.

Serve in a border of fluffy cooked rice. Buttered spinach and baked squash go nicely with it. For dessert—baked apples to make it an oven meal.

CHUCK POT ROAST

Rub a beef chuck pot roast with 2 tsp. salt and ¼ tsp. pepper. Brown in 3 tbsp. fat slowly until well browned.

Add ½ cup water, 1 eight-ounce can tomato sauce, ½ medium onion sliced, and 1 or 2 cloves of garlic finely chopped.

Cover tightly and cook over low heat 1½ hours.

Combine 2 tbsp. brown sugar, ¼ tsp. dry mustard, ¼ cup lemon juice, ¼ cup vinegar, ¼ cup catsup and 1 tbsp. Worcestershire sauce.

Four over the meat, cover and continue cooking slowly about 1 hour or until meat is tender. Remove meat to hot platter.

Skim off most of fat from pan and dilute with water to suit taste. Then thicken the liquid with flour and water paste. Simmer a moment or two and serve. Makes four servings.

Baby Sitter Appears In Manger

REGINA (CP) — Regina's young public school artists evidently are developing a modern style, distinctly their own.

One youngster, asked to produce his idea of the Christmas story, carefully painted the figures of Mary, Joseph and the baby Jesus in his manger, with animals in the background. In one corner, he painted a strange looking box.

"What is that?" asked the teacher.

"It's a sewing machine," replied the young artist. "You see, when Jesus was born, there were no stores and they had to make their own clothing."

Another student, also illustrating the Christmas story, painted Jesus, Joseph and Mary and a fourth figure.

That, the girl explained, was the baby sitter.

Original Models

At Hotel Fashion Show

One of the most enjoyable ways for a woman to spend an afternoon — with tea and superb fashions — was offered the women of Victoria yesterday at the Empress Hotel, where the Island Weavers with Toojay's, presented a showing of high fashion.

LOCAL DESIGNER
Elizabeth Altwelt, designer of most of the original models shown was introduced to the tea guests by Mr. Cyril Chapman, manager of the Empress Hotel.

It was really very exciting to realize that right here in Victoria such a talented designer is available and doing such brilliant work.

Billy Tickle and group provided music for the affair.

Most of the suits, dresses and skirts shown were made in Victoria of wools and tweeds woven in Victoria. Three lovely models, Pat Olson, Joe Altkens and Sybil Bateman, showed the clothes beautifully. There was no commentary for the strolling show, and models stopped and chatted, giving details of the ensembles.

Much attention in fashion news has focused on culottes, the pants that look like skirts. One of the most flattering culottes I have seen were worn by Pat Olson. Made at Island Weavers, the very slim skirt had a front and back panel that completely conceals the fact that this skirt is really a pair of culottes. Women who have avoided this bit of high fashion will be delighted at the slimming effect and ultra smart silhouette achieved.

A stunning outfit for afternoon wear was worn by Joe Altkens. A plum-purple wool dress with turban made of the same fabric featured slim skirt in three tiers, a large V-collar and long sleeves. Sybil Bateman looked charming in an electric blue briefly jacketed suit trimmed with natural Persian lamb. Her simply-styled hat was an excellent match and just right for this very lovely suit.

WOOL LACE
Knit-wool lace dresses in one and two piece styles were very popular at the showing, and were seen in stunning shades.

Pat Olson wore a classically styled, slim-skirted blue suit with long-sleeved, pullover top, accessorized with a claret brimmed hat with a dash of feathers. One called "Sudan Ivory," a warm beige, was worn by Joe Altkens. This sheath dress, in a lacy weave, was accessorized with a Norwegian fox stole from the Hudson's Bay Company, and an exotic black hat from Toojay's. A cardigan suit with scarf stole in ice coffee shaded mohair was worn by Pat Olson. This is a very simple style that could go anywhere. Sybil Bateman wore a "celeste blue" cardigan style suit with a small rolled, V-collar, made for Island Weavers by Hummer of Vienna. With the suit she wore an elegant, tall turban of grey mink.

NEW SHAPE
A lovely violet boucle suit, emphasizing the new shaped front and straight back, with its own stole was worn by Joe Altkens. This suit, designed, as many others were, by Elizabeth Altwelt, had two looks. The scarf could be worn with panels at the back, forming a V-front bib effect, or worn in front, the V forming a shawl.

The fashion show was repeated last evening during the Smorgasbord in the Dining Room at the Empress Hotel. A large ice carving centred the front table of the smorgasbord quadrangle. Between the tables was an enormous copper jardiniere filled with golden yellow baby chrysanthemums. The dinner, as well as the afternoon tea, was well attended both by the women and their husbands.

Louise Naysmith Wed In Portland Ceremony

Of interest in Victoria is a wedding which took place recently in Portland, Ore., when Miss Joan Louise Naysmith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Naysmith, 2947 Shelbourne Street, became the bride of Dr. John Charles Bigelow, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Bigelow of Bremerton, Wash.

Rev. J. Kieter performed the ceremony in All Saints' Episcopal Church. Yellow and bronze chrysanthemums and flickering candles decorated the church. Mrs. Joyce Craft was soloist. Little David Naysmith, the bride's brother, was acolyte.

The bride wore a full-length gown of white whisper taffeta fashioned with a sabrina neckline, lace inserts at neckline and a full skirt with peau de soie roses at the side. She carried a bouquet of red roses and stephanotis.

Mrs. C. Cann and Mrs. C. Byers were bridesmaids in matching gowns of blush beige embossed taffeta. They wore yellow and bronze feather headresses and carried colonial bouquets of yellow chrysanthemums.

ST. MARTIN'S
Christmas tea and sale will be held by the St. Martin's-in-the-Field Afternoon Branch WA on Wednesday, Dec. 7 at 2.30 p.m. in the Parish Hall, Obed Avenue.

Little Kerry Ann Sunderleaf was flower girl in a matching yellow frock and a lace bonnet.

Mr. Charles Byer was best man, and Mr. Vein Capin of Victoria and Mr. Ray Larsen of Seattle, Wash., were ushers. For a reception in the church hall, yellow candles in silver holders and yellow and bronze chrysanthemums formed the decorations.

Leaving for a honeymoon in Long Beach, Calif., the bride wore a blue wool suit with black grosgrain hat. The couple will make their home in Portland.

The bride's grandmother, Mrs. L. C. Tudor of Victoria was among the out-of-town guests.

women, the Victoria BPW club has been passed or changed at our insistence."

Pointing to the future Miss Forbes stressed that "in this space age it is our continued responsibility to be alert and ready to consider all phases of conditions affecting employed women, if we are to continue to speak with authority for them."

She was introduced by Miss Maidie Cottingham and thanked by Mrs. Vera Wade. Club president, Miss Ella Brett presided at the dinner; a sing-song of Canadian tunes was led by Mrs. Enid Webster with Mrs. Marian Downie at the piano; message from the national president, Miss Una MacLean, Calgary, was read by Mrs. Marguerite Laughlin, national business women's week chairman. Convener of arrangements was the club's second vice-president, Miss Jean Smith.

Floral arrangements were in charge of Miss Cottingham and table decorations, Miss Hilda Hesson.

Tips for Parents

By HELEN R. HEWSON

Family and guest lingered at the supper table and the conversation turned to birthday parties.

"Mine is in the winter time and we always have a sleighing or skating party," explained the eldest.

Well, mine is in March, and this year we went to a movie and then home for supper and we popped corn and toasted marshmallows. Mom said it kept all the guys in one place, more or less."

"My birthday is in May and I have a party," announced the four-year-old.

"When is your birthday and what kind of a party do you have?" they asked the guest. "Oh, mine comes in November so it just slips by like any other day," she replied. "But when is it, what day?" they insisted.

"As a matter of fact, it's tomorrow," she confessed.

Quick glances and little smiles went around the table and she knew that this time there would be a party.

Next day there was much scurrying and whispering and the guest was carefully kept away from the front room. Whenever she turned that way there was always a small escort to see that she went round to the back.

At last the party time arrived. The guest of honor was led to her chair, gaily decorated with pink rosettes fashioned from cookie box paper.

The ceiling was festooned with colorful streamers of foil, whatever the children had been able to find that could be cut, crinkled and colored.

There were gifts, too, a coffee tin wrapped in bark held wintergreen and bunchberry bedded in moss; and there was a basket of cones for her fireplace.

And there were birthday cards fashioned with paper, paste and paint.

When the children had gone to bed the guest spoke of their ingenuity in using what was at hand.

"They thoroughly enjoyed it and they are really quite clever at making much of little," their mother said. "I wish you could see some of their rainy-day masterpieces."

Toy Gun Sends Salesman Flying

ONTARIO, Calif. (UPI)—Mrs. Bernard Pennino opened the door to her home and was astounded to see the man standing outside turn pale, spin around and dash out the yard by vaulting a three-foot fence.

It took the housewife several minutes before she realized what caused the man's apparent terror, she explained to police yesterday.

When the doorbell rang, said Mrs. Pennino, she tripped over the toy gun of her son, Jimmie, 15, and carried it with her to the door.

She discovered she had the gun in her hand while the man, apparently a salesman, must have been reading a sign her son had tacked up on the front door. The sign read:

"We shoot every third salesman and the second one just left."

'Cold War' of Churches Passing

ROME (Reuters) — The Archbishop of Canterbury, Geoffrey Fisher, made the appeal on the eve of his private audience with Pope John about noon today.

The 73-year-old archbishop said he had come to Rome for two days not to boast or complain but only to greet the pontiff "in the courtesy of Christian brotherhood."

Therefore, while it is quite an unspectacular event, it is also an historic occasion, he said.

In an Anglican church sermon Thursday night, the archbishop said the "cold war" unity of His church.

Garden Notes

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

In discussing garden plants, we tend to place them in classifications according to their habit of growth and their use in the garden. We speak of annuals, herbaceous perennials, biennials, alpine, evergreen shrubs, flowering shrubs—and roses. We think of roses not as a perennial or a shrub but as a plant in a class by itself.

I believe this is quite correct and proper insofar as the cultivated hybrid teas and floribundas are concerned, for the ordinary rose is not a good mixer and is definitely out of place either in the perennial border or in a border of flowering shrubs—the Queen of Flowers must have a special bed to herself. One point we tend to forget is that the original wild or species roses are, in fact, flowering shrubs and very good ones, too.

The shrub roses don't need to take a back seat from any flowering shrub in the catalogue. With their diversity of size, form and texture, some with varied colored foliage and bright winter bark and all with colorful fruits or "hips," they make excellent subjects for the shrub border. They require much less care than their aristocratic relatives; pruning is necessary only to remove old or dead wood and most of the shrub roses are immune or resistant to bugs and disease infections.

Think of the wild rose most familiar to you, whether it is the Briar rose or Dog rose of Britain, Rose blanda of Ontario or the wild Prairie rose, provincial floral emblem of Alberta. Can you see your particular wild rose lighting up your shrub border? Isn't it as colorful as, say, your Spiraea, your Flowering Currant, your Barberry or Cotoneaster? There are dozens of such roses, with flowers and foliage as varied as the Azaleas, and all as hardy as a Scotch pine.

The Burnet or Scots rose is a grand subject in itself but some of its hybrids are even more interesting. Fruehling's Gold, for instance, makes a well-formed shrub some four feet tall which literally covers itself in summer with lovely golden cup-shaped flowers, perfuming the air with the fragrance found only in the wild rose.

The Altai rose, actually Rosa spinosissima altaica, is a cousin of the true Scots rose, but from Central Asia. It grows to six feet in height, bearing a profusion of single creamy white flowers followed by large, showy black fruits which will hang on all winter.

A constant problem in the shrub border is to find subjects which will keep on blooming over a long period of time—our lilacs, our rhododendrons, our hydrangeas are all so fleeting in bloom. One of the most tireless performers is the Rugosa hybrid rose Flamingo, which keeps up a constant succession of bloom from early June until November. Flamingo is a man-made cross between the rather prickly Rosa rugosa and the hybrid tea rose White Wings, making a five-foot shrub. The flower clusters are a bright flamingo pink, deepening in color in the fall.

Father Hugo's rose, Rosa Hugonis, has long been a favorite of mine, even though the blooms are about finished by the end of June. A native of central China, it makes a six-foot shrub with delicate single yellow flowers produced in long, arching sprays, starting in early May.

Alberta isn't the only province to select the wild rose as its floral emblem. The provincial flower of Newfoundland is the Shining Rose, Rosa nitida, with smallish rose-red blooms, scarlet spines and probably the prettiest foliage of any member of the rose family. The leaves are small, very shiny, dark green in summer, turning to red or purple in the fall.

Words of Fire and Music

I am far from the first person to discover Sylvia Ashton-Warner nor even her second book, "Incense to Idols," which is said to be not so good as her first book, "Spinster." Some say it is not a good book at all, "Incense to Idols," and I'm not even sure but that they are right.

But what a writer she is! Intensely feminine, intensely female, intensely womanly, she reminds me in mood and in tone of Colette, different as they are. There have been women writers before—Jane Austen, to name the most conspicuous example—but while they thought like women, they wrote in the manner of men. Writers like Colette and Miss Ashton-Warner, on the other hand, have almost invented a feminine language, a female sentence structure, girl syntax. "I still cultivate my depravities and venerate my gods to indulge every sense I've got." What man would write like that?

What is the difference between men and women? Well, men writers act. (Hemingway is a blatant example.) Women react. "As a role, I was born to listening," says Germaine the heroine, who speaks for the author. The author has certainly done a lot of listening. And also, smelling and tasting and looking and feeling and perhaps experiencing six or seven other senses I haven't got. This woman reacts to light and shade and poetry, to music and beauty and to people. Especially to people.

"Incense to Idols" is the tale, all told in interior monologue, of a celebrated and amoral and passionate Parisienne concert pianist who arrives in New Zealand, her widow's weeds still new but marvelously child in search of the greatest piano teacher in the world and, quite incidentally but importantly, a husband.

Miss Ashton-Warner writes, in fact, as if she were describing a symphony. Each man is different—a man of God, a man of music, a man of science, a man of clay, an ordinary mortal husband. And she—this pagan, sensuous, witty Frenchwoman—is the constant theme, changing her orchestration, her tonal qualities for each—repeating her central theme on the piccolo, in the brasses, in the woodwinds—depending on what is appropriate to the occasion, she and her inner music.

Candor forces me to admit that Miss Ashton-Warner loses me in the last 50 pages. But the first two or three hundred pages are more than enough, so compelling, so individual so piercing is her style or, to use one of her own favorite words—her technique. How long it's been since we had a writer who had any technique to speak of?

Hollywood Today

By Sheilah Graham

Everybody Knows Yul

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—When I told Yul Brynner he is sometimes hard to reach, he said, "All you have to do if you want me in Switzerland, for example, is call the Swiss overseas operator and say, 'I want Yul Brynner,' the same in France. They always know where I am."

Louis Armstrong has been doing his bit in the Congo. And now the state department wants Billy Eckstine to make a tour of the Belgian Congo and other trouble spots in Africa soon after January 1. "I'd go, even at my own expense," states Billy, who believes it is his duty to help prevent the spread of Communism.

Busy, talented Peter Ustinov is leaving Thursday for Rome to finish editing his "Romanoff and Juliet" film. He's in New York to promote his new novel, and his latest film, "Spartacus."

From Susan Hayward, discussing her new U-I movie, "Back Street." "When a man asks me up to his apartment, I bring along my own etchings."

Danny Kaye has a new two-seater, four-motor plane. But he can't fly it, by order of Paramount, until he completes "On the Double."

Blonde Mary Ure stars for Jerry Wald again, in his next D. M. Lawrence film. For $100,000. Before that she stars on the stage in "Trials by Logue." Mary is in big Hollywood demand since her screen hit in "Sons and Lovers," in the role refused by Joan Collins.

The "Never on Sunday" star, Melina Mercouri, asserts vehemently that she will never make a movie in Hollywood. "If they want me," says Melina with the assurance of a girl who has just had a hit, "they'll have to come to me." The future Mrs. Jules Dassin says, "no babies"—her career is more important.

Greta Garbo surprised Fifth Avenue (New York) promenaders—she was almost incognito, having discarded her dark glasses and big, floppy hat. It's been so long since we saw her face!

After the sneak preview of Metro's "Where the Boys Are," lovely Dolores Hart woke up to find she had a whole new starring career. At the moment she is in Italy playing a leading role in "Francis of Assisi" for 20th Century-Fox. Now Metro wants to give her a long and beautiful contract. "Where the Boys Are" should make another fortune for the studio, and I congratulate producer Joe Pasternak.

He Knew the Woods, Beaches

By JAMES K. NESBITT

William Arnold "Billy" Newcombe, who died this week at 76, knew more than any other living person about British Columbia flora and fauna, totem poles, Indians, woods, rocks and beaches.

He was a walking British Columbia, and many young people will miss his instruction and kindly interest.

"Billy" Newcombe spent his boyhood trudging through the woods and along the seashore on the heels of his father, Dr. C. F. Newcombe, surgeon, botanist and scientist, who edited Menzies' Journal of Vancouver's voyages, and supplied for it the botanical and ethnological notes. Dr. Newcombe died here in 1924.

Born in Hood River, Oregon, "Billy" came to Victoria with his family in 1889, attended school in James Bay, and, with his father, travelled to many parts of the province, including the Queen Charlotte Islands, studying the ethnology of the primitive peoples, and learning to love them. He could talk with them like a native, and he lived for days in their villages.

Death of Billy Newcombe Loss to British Columbia

A lifelong bachelor, he was shy, and silent most of the time, talking only with the cronies, or with those he felt were not laughing at him and his work. He could go for weeks without speaking a word to anyone, yet he was a warm and friendly man.

Years ago, when he was on staff of Provincial Museum, from which he retired in 1933 to work on his own, "Billy" encouraged her in her work, when others scoffed. From him she learned a great deal of Indian folklore. Together they often visited remote Indian villages. He saw to it that her Indian village paintings were ethnologically correct.

Emily Carr named "Billy" Newcombe one of her executors, and since her death in 1945 he had been a trustee of the Emily Carr Memorial Scholarship Fund.

"Billy" Newcombe leaves much to posterity, including these treasures in the archives: "A brief history of the Queen Charlotte Islands"; "British Columbia Totem Poles"; "The Journal of Jacinto Casmato"; "Sea Lions of British Columbia."

He lived by himself in the old family home on Dallas Road, across from the pilot station and docks—a red brick house, hidden by trees, a house that looked like a mission station in a compound somewhere in China.

Resort Town

Nanaimo Changing Character

By ALEC MERRIMAN

Nanaimo is destined to become a major summer resort town, whether it likes it or not.

For years now Nanaimo has billed itself as "The Hub of the Island" and it has been just that... a place where people had to pass through, but where few people stopped for any great length of time.

In 1959, some 955,244 vehicles, averaging three visitors a car, came to Vancouver Island and the big majority of them either entered or left by Nanaimo ferries. Nanaimo was a point of entry, or a point of departure, but it wasn't a place to stay.

Now the picture is changing on several fronts.

The new government ferry service—Tsawwassen to Swartz Bay—has created the Victoria

area as a big point of entry for tourists. Nanaimo is now becoming a stopping place.

The provincial parks branch plans a $1,000,000 Holiday Island development on Newcastle Island, just a stone's throw from Nanaimo city and this will provide visitors with some place to go... a reason to stop in Nanaimo, and a place to camp.

Nanaimo is only just becoming known as a summertime paradise. For some unknown reason—maybe because Nanaimoites wanted to keep their amenities to themselves—Nanaimo has never been recognized as a holiday district, but it has plenty of attractions.

No One But Locals

Kanaka Bay on the other side of Newcastle Island provides some of the finest heavy-weight spring salmon fishing on the Island, but practically no one but the locals know about it. Five Fingers, just off Departure Bay, provides excellent blueback and coho fishing. There are some 30 or 40 lakes back of Nanaimo, and most of them with trout.

Westwood Lake, which is easily accessible, is only about three miles from town and has been recently developed as a civic park. Brannan and Queen's Lakes, on either side of town, are both good fishing lakes. Nanaimo waters are a yachtsman's dream and there is now a good boat-launching ramp along the waterfront to ward the Black Ball Ferry wharf.

It won't be long before the Nanaimo area is the summer home capital of Vancouver Island, if not British Columbia.

It is one of the few areas where waterfront property is still readily available and realtor Frank Ney, who has specialized in development properties, says "summer development lots are selling like mad."

And why shouldn't they? Where else can you buy waterfront lots at $15 down and $15 a month, or have your own summer home built on your lot for $39 down and $39 a month, lot included.

That is what Nanaimo has to offer on the beautiful Gulf Islands, within rowboat distance of Nanaimo Harbor.

Supermarket Method

Mr. Ney, who says he is able to provide property bargains because he applies supermarket techniques to his land development business, last summer subdivided all of Protection Island, in Nanaimo's harbor, into 372 lots. He sold 240 of them in 10 days and now has only about 20 left to sell. Waterfront lots sold for $1,800 at $20 down and $20 a month.

Next summer he will do the same with Mudge Island, near Dudds Narrows, which he has renamed Driftwood Island, and has subdivided into 300 lots which will be offered at $1,200 for a waterfront lot at $15 down and $15 a month, or at $450 for an inside lot at $5 down and $5 a month.

Hundreds of Lots

Mr. Ney's Nanaimo Realty and other real estate firms in Nanaimo are offering hundreds of waterfront lots on Vancouver Island in the Nanaimo area and these are being taken up for both summer homes, and permanent homes for Nanaimo residents.

Newest of the waterfront subdivisions is Allan Armstrong's Dolphin Beach Estates at Lantzville, opposite the Ballenas Islands, 16 miles north of Nanaimo, where 600 lots went on sale Thanksgiving weekend with asking price for waterfront lots between $2,500 and $3,500.

Evans-Finlayson has Morning-Side Beach at Piper's Lagoon, where about 300 acres of choice property will make about 600 lots.

Newcastle Realty has Sherwood Forests subdivision which overlooks Departure Bay and has waterfront lots at from $2,500 to $6,000.

Nanaimo's Mayor Pete Maffeo is well aware of Nanaimo's potential as a holiday recreation district and is already Gabriola Island also features some summer home subdivision and 100 lots in the Gabriola Sands subdivision have been sold. There are 60 lots in the Malaspina Galleries subdivision on Gabriola Island, selling at $550, at $7 down and $7 a month.

Protection Island was developed on a pirate theme with eight pirate fairyland beach parks with names such as Smugglers Park, Pirates Park, Hidden Treasure Park, Blackbeard's Park, Capt. Morgan's Park, Capt. Flint's Park. There is Billy Bones Bay, Corsair Bay, Long John Silver Bay, Jim Hawkins Beach, to mention only a few, and each street has a pirate theme. Driftwood Island will be developed along a similar theme.

"We feel the new government ferries have cut down the traffic of the CPR and Black Ball Ferries in Nanaimo, but they certainly haven't hurt our tourist industry," says Nanaimo Chamber of Commerce secretary-manager Russell Dudley.

"We feel Will Hawkins (manager of the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau) is on the right road in making Vancouver Island a Treasure Island," he said.

"The outlook for Nanaimo's tourist industry next year is tremendous," he said.

Another 'Mile 0'

Since 1926

Tofino Claims 'Mile 0'

TOFINO—Victoria and Esquimalt municipal officials can stop squabbling over the location of "Mile 0" on the Trans-Canada Highway right now.

Neither the capital nor its "naval suburb" are entitled to post "Mile 0" signs.

Tofino has been the beginning of the Trans-Canada since 1926 when federal engineers ended their cross-country survey there and erected a sign to prove it.

'Ghost Was Sure to Go'

LONDON (UPI)—Virginia had a little ghost. Its sheet was white as snow. And every where Virginia went the ghost was sure to go.

They were rewriting the nursery rhyme today in the village of Sanchie in the Robert Burns country in Scotland.

little girl in the village school named Virginia Campbell.

Virginia is only 11, a pig-tailed youngster who doesn't play much with other little girls.

For example:

A desk bounced up and down.

A door opened as Virginia passed through and could not be shut.

"I don't believe in the supernatural but I was mesmerized," Miss Stewart said.

"It looked like an elaborate practical joke. But there was no strings and no one touched the desk."

Virginia stayed home today and her mother refused to discuss rumors that her daughter has attracted a poltergeist (mischievous ghost).

Villagers said they understood church authorities would be consulted to determine if this is a case warranting exorcism.

Central Saanich Reeve Facing Bigger Problems

The job of reeve of Central Saanich will carry increased responsibility in the coming term, candidate R. G. Lee said last night.

He told more than 100 ratepayers at an all-candidates rally that the next reeve faces a big problem in control of finance in the expanding municipality.

He said he is running for office at the request of council, adding that his experience as chairman of the finance committee on previous councils would prove valuable.

He said as a retired businessman he would have a full day to devote to municipal business.

Candidate R. M. Lamont said his nine years on council would provide background for contesting the reeve's seat.

"I have a job," he said, "but will still have half of every day for municipal business."

Both candidates were asked if the newly-acquired water system would lead to a highly-taxed suburban sprawl development.

Candidate Lee said present plans of the Capital Region Planning Board called for preserving Saanich as the green outskirts of Victoria, "but we can't prevent people subdividing."

Candidate Lamont said zoning bylaws could be enforced to prevent sprawl.

PREMIER LESAGE
... Informal exchange

Provinces Seek 'Institution'

QUEBEC (CP) — The 10 provinces agreed Thursday on the need for an institution to provide co-operation on provincial matters, but rejected the idea it should deal with subjects of federal-provincial concern.

The closed conference, meeting at the invitation of Premier Jean Lesage of Quebec, dug into the idea of such an interprovincial council from the start, informants said.

Informal exchanges of view raised questions whether such items as equalization payments to the less-wealthy provinces, hospital insurance schemes and the like could be included under the council.

GENERAL SENSE

The term institution was to be taken in a general sense, informants said.

Some premiers felt it would be a good thing for provincial representatives to meet at regular intervals to discuss mutual problems. Others favored establishing some machinery to deal with interprovincial problems. B.C.'s Premier Bennett wanted to avoid any red tape in interprovincial activities.

WAYS, MEANS

Officially, the only word was that the two-day conference opened with general discussion and was to get down today to ways and means whereby future conferences could be held.

Two developments were emphasized as the eight premiers and representatives of two other provinces broke off from the consultations inspired by Premier Lesage's proposal for interprovincial co-operation.

PROVINCIAL MATTERS

One was the stress put on the fact that solely provincial matters — as opposed to those within the orbit of federal-provincial relations — were raised. The other was that the convention, due to end today, hasn't got down to ways and means of establishing more permanent machinery.

RCMP Called To Eject 'Sons'

CRESTON (CP) — RCMP were called to evict 14 Sons of Freedom women from John Lebedoff's home in Wynndel recently. The house is known in Doukhobor circles as the "Ark."

The Ark was reported to have been built and financed by Sons of Freedom as a place of refuge and salvation for all Doukhobors.

500 Fund's Aid 'Real Source of Joy'

Welfare agencies in the Greater Victoria area welcome the contribution made by The Daily Colonist 500 Christmas Fund to Victoria's 500 most needy families each year.

"Through the whole year families on welfare assistance are forced to operate on a bare minimum," said David Woodsworth, executive director of the Family and Children's Service. "By easing this close planning the Colonist 500 Fund is a real source of joy."

"Most people don't realize how many families are operating in this area at below subsistence level," Mr. Woodsworth said. "Money provided by welfare keeps them alive but it doesn't do much more than that."

"Development of their personalities is something that must be our concern," he said. "The 500 Fund contributes to their realization of themselves as people."

City welfare administrator William Hooson said, "By providing extra money to the 500 needy families the fund enables them to buy things they could not normally buy-out of social assistance. It fills the bill for most of our needy families."

Last year the Colonist 500 Fund provided $20.95 for each of the 500 needy families. Donations should be adressed to The Daily Colonist 500 Christmas Fund and mailed or sent to the main office at 2631 Douglas Street or the downtown office at 1215 Broad Street.

Throw Out Check-Off Firms Ask

Representatives of some 700 B.C. construction and contracting firms yesterday asked the provincial government to repeal a section of the Labor Relations Act which authorizes an employer to check-off union dues.

It has been reported the government is considering such legislation for the next session.

YEARLY AUDIT

The B.C. Federation of Construction Associations, in a brief presented to cabinet yesterday, also urged that legislation be passed providing for a compulsory yearly audit for unions and that a copy of the financial statement be sent to each union member.

The federation spokesmen condemned labor agreements which made membership in a trade union a condition of employment and criticized "the fact that elected and paid officers of certain unions are advocating and implementing financial support in one specific area of political activity."

This was in reference to the "marriage" between the CCF and Canadian Labor Congress to give birth to the New Party.

"We contend that political action, financial or otherwise is the prerogative of the individual and that no other individual or group is morally or ethically justified in assuming that membership in a trade union can be interpreted to mean unquestioned support of one specific political party," the brief stated.

MUST HONOR

The section dealing with the check-off of dues reads, in part: "Every employer must honor a written assignment of wages to a trade union."

Provincial government has already cancelled the check-off of dues for members of its B.C. Government Employees' Association because of the association's affiliation with the B.C. Federation of Labor.

The federation, in its brief, also urged appointment of a permanent independent labor relations board and asked that all members of a union be polled in a strike vote rather than allowing a strike to be called on the decision of "those who vote."

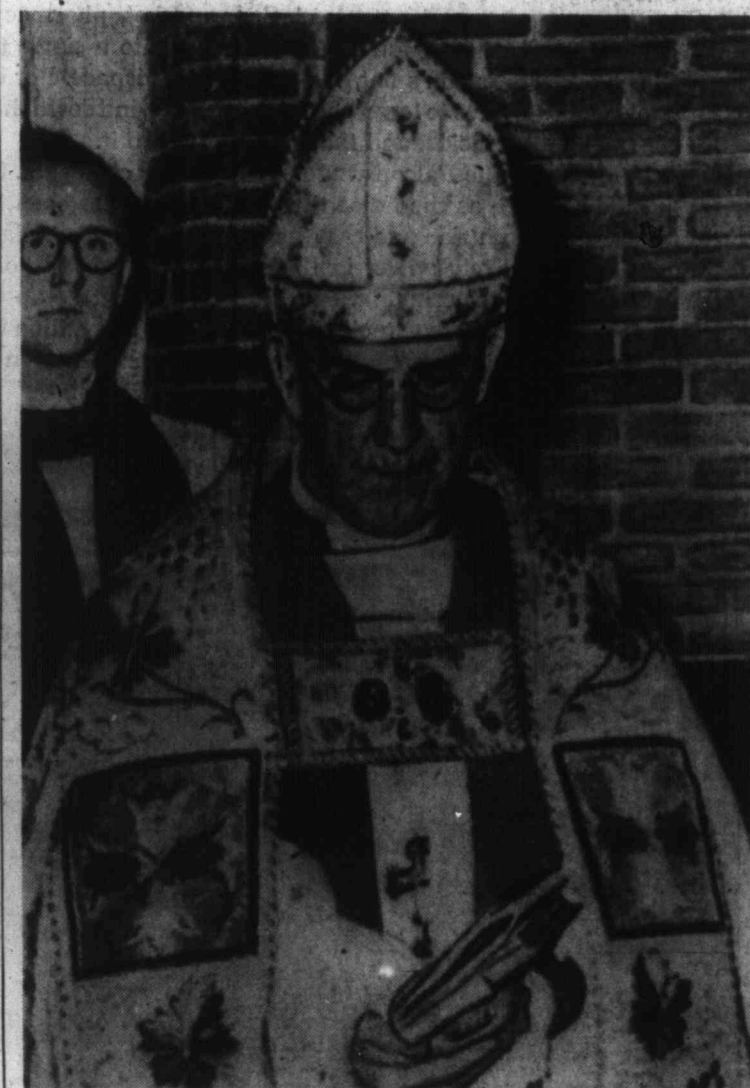

Sailor Dies After Fall

VANCOUVER (CP) — George Delapollis, a young Greek seaman, was fatally injured late Thursday in a fall aboard a ship anchored in Vancouver harbor.

Officials said the seaman toppled into a hold aboard a Greek freighter. He was rushed to Shaughnessy Hospital but died a short time later.

No Relaxing Weekend For Senate

OTTAWA (UPI) — The Senate sacrificed its customary long weekend to remain on call to process the government's anti-rail strike legislation when it passes the House of Commons.

Christian Summit Talks Today

Centuries-old "cold war" between major faiths of Christianity will come step nearer complete thaw today when Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, pays historic visit to Pope John at Vatican. Occasion will be first visit of senior Anglican prelate to Rome since 14th century. (See story on Page 25.) — (AP Photofax.)

COMMONS RACES CLOCK TO DELAY RAIL STRIKE

Debate Rages Past Midnight As Liberals, CCF Battle Hard

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons early today concluded a marathon clause-by-clause study of emergency government legislation to avert Saturday's rail strike threat until May 15.

Last Commons hurdle before final passage of the keep-the-trains-running bill will come later today at third and final reading. This phase will open about 10 a.m. MST.

Then the bill must pass the Senate and receive royal assent before it becomes law.

There was little or no doubt the measure would get royal assent in time to stop a rail-way strike threatened for 8

It was the longest night sitting since the 1955 pipeline debate.

However, the debate on the bill began only Wednesday afternoon and there was no Wednesday night sitting.

Members sat beyond the regular 10 p.m. adjournment Thursday night to clean up clause-by-clause study of the bill.

Keep Africa In Family U.K. Stand

LONDON (CP) — Britain has decided to throw the full weight she commands in Commonwealth councils into a determined effort to keep South Africa in the family of nations, government sources said Thursday.

51st State

Britain-U.S. Union Out Mac Says

LONDON (CP) — Prime Minister Macmillan told the House of Commons Thursday he isn't thinking in terms of an eventual merger of Britain and the United States.

He was replying to Sir Harry Legge-Bourke, who was alarmed at press reports that Britain is getting ready to be the 51st state of the U.S.

Temper Wore Thin

Temper wore thin at times and there were a few heated exchanges. But the debate never approached the bitterness of the pipeline marathon.

The Commons finished its business at 1:48 a.m. EST and adjourned until 11 a.m.

At midnight, the eight-clause bill postponing the threatened rail strike until May 15 had survived a Liberal move to kill it at second reading and had moved into a bitter clause-by-clause fight before the third and final reading.

By unanimous agreement, MPs of all parties scrapped the normal 10 p.m. adjournment time in a bid to clean up the detailed study of the bill — a job still unfinished at the start of the new day.

Frank Howard (CCF-Skeena) forced a standing vote on the first clauses of the bill, then proposed an amendment just before midnight that would give the rail workers half of the proposed 14-cent hourly pay boost.

Defeat by 94 to 24

It was defeated by a vote of 94 to 24.

He tried again with another amendment calling for longer holidays for long-service railwaymen, a proposal accepted by all three members of the federal conciliation board that studied the dispute.

It, too, went down to defeat — with 88 government members swamping 22 Liberal MPs and four CCF members.

Earlier, the bill cleared second reading — approval in principle — by a vote of 145 to 39. The Liberals, CCF and one New Party member all voted against the bill.

New Party group voted for the amendment that would have blocked second reading of the government's bill.

The amendment, proposed by Liberal leader Pearson, contended the legislation imposed a "compulsory and discriminatory" wage freeze on the 111,000 railwaymen still threatening to strike Saturday for higher pay.

The recorded vote came just after 9 p.m. EST — with the strike just 35 hours away.

Blind to Red Peril Senator Says of U.K.

PARIS (Reuters) — United States Senator Thomas J. Dodd (Dem., Conn.) charged Thursday that British intelligence is slack in the search for Communist espionage agents.

He said British security forces never laid hands on "any important Communist agent," and claimed the U.S. Federal Bureau of Investigation was mainly responsible for the 1950 arrest in Britain of atom spy Klaus Fuchs.

The senator believed the cause of the alleged slackness was "no other reason than a general lack of consciousness of the importance of the Communist danger" in the British public and government.

Belgium Visit For Tshombe

ELIZABETHVILLE (Reuters) — Premier Moïse Tshombe, head of breakaway Katanga province in the Congo, will fly to Belgium Monday.

You CAN Fight City Hall —But You Can't Win

NORTH COWICHAN — A Crofton man is still shaking his head after a session with North Cowichan council in which he won the battle but lost the war over a building permit.

quired to take out a permit for a home remodeling job which involved no structural changes.

In order to hasten a ruling on the justification of the order Reeve Donald Morton suggested Mr. Kay pay the $5 permit charge and then lay a formal complaint before council.

His plea for redress was so eloquent that councillors decided to relax the provisions of the building bylaw in such cases and ruled that no permits would be required for remodeling—but they also decided that the move couldn't be made retroactive and that Mr. Kay would have to forfeit his $5.

Retreat From Lechery

LONDON (Reuters) — The Church of England newspaper said Thursday that in Britain there is "so much encouragement to lechery that the serious Christian begins to wonder whether it may not prove to be necessary to retire to a latter-day monastery to preserve his faith."

An editorial in the Anglican weekly added: "Sexual titillation is not only retailed through every kind of mass communication in a more or less bare-faced manner. It is wrung out of works of literature and art regardless of their chief aim and merit. It is rationalized as a warm, generous attitude to life."

No Trace Of Vessel

HALIFAX (CP) — An air and sea search Thursday failed to find a trace of the Liberian freighter Iri, eight days overdue on a voyage from Cornwall, England, to Sydney, N.S.

The 3,100-ton vessel had a crew of 23 and was carrying a cargo of china clay for Montreal.

Loan Plan 'Smacks Of Marx'

OTTAWA (CP) — Senator Arthur Roebuck said Thursday that a government bill to provide federally-guaranteed bank loans to small businesses smacks of Karl Marx.

The Toronto Liberal told the Senate shortly before it gave second reading — approval in principle — to the measure that it is not a function of a democratic government to become involved in the financing of private businesses.

Ottawa May About-Face On Foreign Car Duty Hike

OTTAWA (CP) — The government appears to be setting the stage for a possible reversal of its decision to raise the import valuations of British and European automobiles, back-bench western Conservative MPs said Thursday.

They based this conclusion on a remark by Finance Minister Fleming in the Commons Thursday, following a question asked Wednesday by Ernest Broome (PC-Vancouver South).

IN EFFECT

The question was whether the government would reconsider the new policy—it went into effect Thursday—by which the valuation for duty purposes on imported automobiles is raised.

It was addressed to Revenue Minister Nowlan, whose departmental officials worked out the valuation formula.

Following Mr. Fleming's assurance that the government

"will not tolerate advantage being taken of the Canadian consumer," the back-benchers' interpretation was that the government was opening the door for annulment or drastic modification of its new policy.

Mr. Fleming said "this whole question is under close examination."

British Columbia industries dependent on exports — particularly the forestry industry — argue that any move to make car imports more difficult would harm their important markets in the United Kingdom and West Germany, both major producers of automobiles for export.

New Duty Protested By Island Jaycees

NANAIMO — Vancouver Island Junior Chambers of Commerce have fired off a telegram to Prime Minister John Diefenbaker protesting imposition of new duties as they apply to imports of British automobiles.

The telegram warns that repercussions from the United Kingdom could be detrimental to the Canadian forest industry shipping to UK markets.

Works Staff Complimented
In Alberni

ALBERNI—The city's public works staff drew compliments from water committee chairman Ald. Fred Bishop this week when he announced they had completed a waterworks installation $43,500 below estimated cost.

Ald. Bishop, chairman of the city's water committee, made the statement at the city council's annual stewardship meeting.

He reported on the planned program for main renewals in Alberni. The new water rates provide for an annual expenditure of about $8,000, for this purpose and priority is being given to the most urgent jobs, he said. He expressed the hope that the policy would be continued.

Ald. Bishop also reported on the establishment of cross-connections between the city's water system and those of Port Alberni and Cherry Creek Improvement District.

"We will soon have a connection with the Beaver Creek system also," he said. "This makes it possible for us to help our neighbors during emergencies and for them to provide similar protection for us if it is ever necessary."

NANAIMO — Aldermanic candidates and members of city council met with the civic affairs committee of the chamber of commerce last night and discussed future growth of the city.

The downtown district held the spotlight through the meeting with a suggestion that Commercial Inlet be filled in from the CPR wharf and access roads built across it, with the remainder used as a large parking area.

Hotel owner Ray Knight said that the fill could be provided from sand dredged from the proposed fishing wharf development.

Ald. John Cook said that another bridge across the Millstone River could aid developing Wallace Street as a business street.

He said the provincial government already has plans for a new bridge paralleling the present George Pearson bridge and joining Stewart Avenue.

Chamber of commerce president Don Cunliffe reported that a survey of Newcastle Island, was completed last week and Recreation Minister Earle C. Westwood had said it is hoped a development plan will be submitted to the city soon.

CAMPBELL RIVER — A youth who pleaded guilty to criminal negligence before Magistrate P. E. Lewis yesterday was fined $300 and lost his driver's licence for three years.

Magistrate Lewis told Harry Arvid Johnson that the greatest contribution the court could make towards traffic safety would be to keep him out of a car.

Johnson was driver of a car

Powerful Tug
Joining Fleet

A powerful new tug will be used by Island Tug and Barge Ltd. in coastal towing here after its arrival in January.

The 97-foot steel-hulled Island Mariner—second of that name in the ITB fleet—was built to order by P. K. Harris and Sons, Devon, England. Twin diesels develop 1,200 shaft horsepower, and a specially-designed hull is expected to increase her power.

Cowichan Enthusiastic

Puppet Concert.
Plan Welcomed

DUNCAN—Cowichan school board has enthusiastically accepted an offer by the Victoria Symphony Society to present a special performance of puppets for school children.

"It is phenomenal—the children get a tremendous lot out of it," said board chairman George Whittaker.

Johnson and three others were hospitalized. Robert Grant, owner of the car and one of the three passengers, is still under doctor's care following an operation in Vancouver General Hospital which left him with a metal plate in his skull.

ALBERNI — Hopes that a chalet on Mt. Arrowsmith will continue to be of use to young people of this district for 40 years was expressed by a spokesman for Rosseau Chalet Committee following a recent meeting in Alberni scout hall.

Art Skipsy explained how the building had been offered for the use of youth organizations of the valley by Mrs. Ralph Rosseau following the death of her husband. The committee was formed to take charge of finishing the chalet which was dedicated to Mr. Rosseau's memory.

Leo Lynn, nephew of the late Mr. Rosseau, gave a description of the building in its early stages and told of how slowly and painstakingly it was constructed, a winch for raising the logs the only mechanical aid.

LADYSMITH — A coroner's jury has returned a verdict of accidental death in the case of bank employee Richard V. Lincoln, 19, of Lake Cowichan, who died as the result of injuries received in a crash north of here Oct. 22.

Four witnesses said at an inquest that Lincoln's car evidently swung out of control on the Trans-Canada Highway on a curve and slid broadside into the path of oncoming traffic.

Coroner Dr. H. W. Lewis of Nanaimo said it was an unfortunate accident.

NANAIMO — A community Christmas carol concert will be held in Nanaimo Dec. 19.

The concert will be sponsored by the recreation commission and the Central Arts Council. Local choirs will lead in the singing of carols and favorite Christmas songs with the audience participating.

Last year a similar concert attracted a capacity audience. This year it will again be held in Nanaimo Senior High School.

NORTH COWICHAN — T. A. Young of Chemainus has resigned as a member of the zoning board of appeal for business reasons. Former councillor Ed Craig is being approached for the job.

CAMPBELL RIVER — The Canadian Legion has been named the winner of an inter-service club contest here designed to provide more blood for a Red Cross donor clinic.

The Legion provided more donors than either the Rotary, Kinsmen or Lions Club.

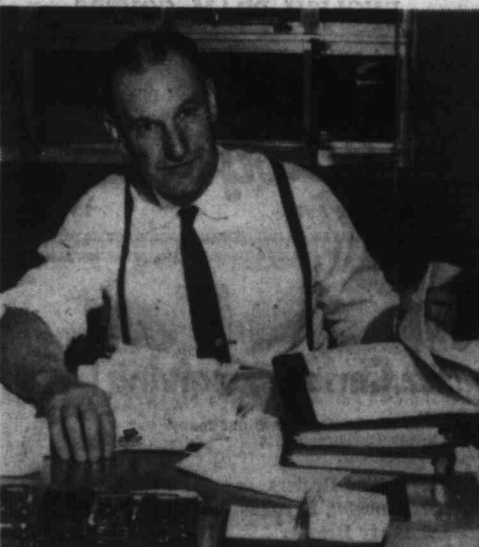

Campbellton PTA provided the highest number of donors among five district PTA entries.

Big 'Scramble' Sunday

Among competitors who will ride for The Daily Colonist 500 Christmas Fund at Colwood Race Track Sunday starting at 1 p.m., hill climb champion Wes Morhart looks on as Vern Amor, B.C. scrambles champion makes a final adjustment to club scrambles champion Bill Smith's mount. Christmas Gift for Esquimalt

$50,000 Under Tree!

Esquimalt ratepayers will be given a $50,000 "Christmas present" by the federal and provincial governments—grants towards the costs of constructing the municipality's sports arena.

Both senior governments have approved the scheme as part of the winter work program. The money will be used to provide improved facilities in the arena.

Reeve A. C. Wurtele said last night $50,000 is a conservative estimate of grants expected from the two governments. The money will be used to purchase more land to improve the siting of the arena, a banquet hall, complete kitchen, spectator windows overlooking the curling rink and other improvements to the original $300,000 design.

The work, which began this week, will keep some 30 men employed during the winter months. Completion date is June 1 next year.

'Week'

Safe Driving Week was only 10 minutes old when Greater Victoria had its first traffic accident of the week.

At 12:10 a.m. yesterday cars driven by Nicholas Lystar, 240 Helmcken, and Harold R. Hansen, 1905 Mayfair, collided at Bay and Government.

No one was injured, but in city police court yesterday morning Lystar pleaded guilty to driving while impaired. He was fined $250, and his licence was suspended.

First accident involving injury occurred at 8:55 a.m. on Douglas at Speed, when cars driven by Keith J. Ross-Jones, 209 View Royal, and Walter B. Burgess, 2126 Spring, were in a rear-end collision.

City police took Mr. Ross-Jones to Royal Jubilee Hospital but he was allowed to go home after X-rays of his back and neck.

Mayor Percy Scurrell will lead a small delegation to Ottawa soon to see if federal help can be obtained in providing off-street parking in downtown Victoria.

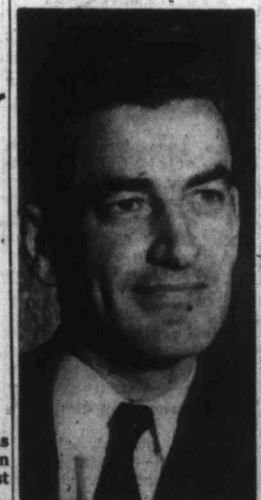

When he was last in Ottawa, the mayor said yesterday, he discussed the possibility with Public Works Minister David Walker, and since then he has had "some encouraging correspondence."

City council, meeting informally in the mayor's office, authorized him to go to Ottawa and he is expected to be accompanied by a representative of the Victoria Downtown Business Association and perhaps a Chamber of Commerce delegate.

11 Now Seeking
Seat on Council

A last-hour entry yesterday brought the number of candidates to 11 for four city council seats.

Michael John Griffin, a 37-year-old plumbing firm director, filed his papers about half an hour before nominations closed.

Others in the race: Ald. Austin Curtis, railway general agent; Ald. Arthur Dowell, company president; William C. Hudson, retired; Samuel Lane, hotel proprietor; Elgin Neish, commercial fisherman; Charles M. Nelles, apartment house operator; Cecil M. Parrott, retired; Sarah Jane Rogers, housewife; Alfred W. Toone, labor organization secretary-treasurer; and Victor W. Williams, real estate salesman.

TWO CANDIDATES

The only two candidates for school board seats, Trustees Mrs. E. M. Maunsell and Ralph Fryer, were elected by acclamation.

Mr. Griffin, like Mr. Lane, said a Colonist editorial calling members of the icebreaker civic service had been largely instrumental in his decision to run.

A resident in Victoria since 1946, he is a past president of the Canadian Plumbing and Mechanical Contractors Association of B.C., a past national director of the organization, a past state deputy of the Knights of Columbus in B.C., a past president of the St. Vincent de Paul Society in Victoria, and is president of the Camosun district Boy Scouts Association.

Ald. Rev. J. L. W. McLean also has expressed increasing doubt about the vote of confidence.

No reply was forthcoming yesterday from the commission to Mr. Haddock's statement calling the treatment being given the six ex-employees "completely shocking and grossly unfair."

But Mayor Scurrell said he had been informed that the commission would be making a statement today.

DUNCAN—Cowichan high school industrial arts teacher F. E. Cummings has received congratulations from the Cowichan school board for winning a merit diploma from the department of education.

Marjory Gavell, 568 Yates, injured Nov. 14 in a fatal car crash on the Malahat, was released yesterday from St. Joseph's Hospital.

Killed when a car skidded out of control and crashed on Tunnel Hill were James Percy, 730 Violet, and Douglas Hartlen of Nova Scotia, both crew members of the icebreaker HMCS Camell.

The Society for the Preservation and Maintenance of Gairdardoch Castle has received $25 sustaining memberships for 1961 from both Mr. and Mrs. Ross.

Original Models

At Hotel Fashion Show

One of the most enjoyable ways for a woman to spend an afternoon — with tea and superb fashions — was offered the women of Victoria yesterday at the Empress Hotel, where the Island Weavers with Today's, presented a showing of high fashion.

LOCAL DESIGNER Elizabeth Altwein, designer of most of the original models shown was introduced to the tea guests by Mr. Cyril Chapman, manager of the Empress Hotel.

It was really very exciting to realize that right here in Victoria such a talented designer is available and doing such brilliant work.

Billy Tickle and group provided music for the affair.

Most of the suits, dresses and skirts shown were made in Victoria of wools and tweeds woven in Victoria. Three lovely models, Pat Olson, Joe Aitkens and Sybil Bateman, showed the clothes beautifully. There was no commentary for the strolling show, and models stopped and chatted, giving details of the ensembles.

Much attention in fashion news has focused on culottes, the pants that look like skirts. One of the most flattering culottes I have seen were worn by Pat Olson. Made at Island Weavers, the very slim skirt had a front and back panel that completely conceals the fact that this skirt is really a pair of culottes. Women who have avoided this bit of high fashion will be delighted at the slimming effect and ultra smart silhouette achieved.

A stunning outfit for afternoon wear was worn by Joe Aitkens. A plum-purple wool dress with turban made of the same fabric featured slim skirt in three tiers, a large V-collar and long sleeves. Sybil Bateman looked charming in an electric blue briefly jacketed suit, trimmed with natural Persian lamb. Her simply-styled hat was an excellent match and just right for this very lovely suit.

NEW SHAPE A lovely violet boucle suit, emphasizing the new shaped front and straight back, with its own stole was worn by Joe Aitkens. This suit, designed, as many others were, by Elizabeth Altwein, had two looks.

The scarf could be worn with panels at the back, forming a V-front bib effect, or worn in front, the V forming a shawl.

A large ice carving centred the front table of the smorgasbord quadrangle. Between the tables was an enormous copper jardiniere filled with golden yellow baby chrysanthemums. The dinner, as well as the afternoon tea, was well attended both by the women and their husbands.

WOOL LACE Knit wool lace dresses in one and two piece styles were very popular at the showing, and were seen in stunning shades. Pat Olson wore a classically styled, slim-skirted blue suit with long-sleeved, pullover top, accessorized with a claret red brimmed hat with a dash of feathers. One called "Sudan Ivory," a warm beige, was worn by Joe Aitkens. This sheath dress, in a lace weave, was accessorized with a Norwegian fox stole from the Hudson's Bay Company, and an exotic black hat from Today's.

Sybil Bateman wore a "celeste blue" cardigan style suit with a small rolled, V-collar, made for Island Weavers by Hummer of Vienna. With the suit she wore an elegant, tall turban of grey mink.

Louise Naysmith Wed In Portland Ceremony

Of interest in Victoria is a wedding which took place recently in Portland, Ore., when Miss Joan Louise Naysmith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Naysmith, 2947 Shelbourne Street, became the bride of Dr. John Charles Bigelow, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Bigelow of Bremerton, Wash.

Rev. J. Kletter performed the ceremony in All Saints' Episcopal Church. Yellow and bronze chrysanthemums and flickering candles decorated the church. Mrs. Joyce Craft was soloist. Little David Naysmith, the bride's brother, was acolyte.

The bride wore a full-length gown of white whisper taffeta fashioned with a sash and neckline and a full skirt with peau de soie roses at the side. She carried a bouquet of red roses and stephanotis.

Mrs. C. Cann and Mrs. C. Byers were bridesmaids in matching gowns of bluish beige embossed taffeta. They wore yellow and bronze feather headpieces and carried colonial bouquets of yellow chrysanthemums.

ST. MARTIN'S Christmas tea and sale will be held by the St. Martin's-in-the-Field Afternoon Branch WA on Wednesday, Dec. 7 at 2.30 p.m. in the Parish Hall, Obed Avenue.

Little Kerry Ann Sunderleaf was flower girl in a matching yellow frock and a lace bonnet.

Mr. Charles Byers was best man, and Mr. Vern Cann of Victoria and Mr. Ray Larsen of Seattle, Wash., were ushers.

For a reception in the church hall, yellow candles in silver holders and yellow and bronze chrysanthemums formed the decorations.

Leaving for a honeymoon in Long Beach, Calif., the bride wore a blue wool suit with black grosgrain hat. The couple will make their home in Portland.

The bride's grandmother, Mrs. L. C. Tudor of Victoria was among the out-of-town guests.

Resort Town

Nanaimo Changing Character

By ALEC MERRIMAN

Nanaimo is destined to become a major summer resort town, whether it likes it or not.

For years now Nanaimo has billed itself as "The Hub of the Island" and it has been just that... a place where people had to pass through, but where few people stopped for any great length of time.

In 1959, some 953,244 vehicles, averaging three visitors a car, came to Vancouver Island and the big majority of them either entered or left by Nanaimo ferries. Nanaimo was a point of entry, or a point of departure, but it wasn't a place to stay.

Now the picture is changing on several fronts.

The new government ferry service—Tsawwassen to Swartz Bay—has created the Victoria

area as a big point of entry for tourists. Nanaimo is now becoming a stopping place.

The provincial parks branch plans a $1,000,000 Holiday Island development on Newcastle Island, just a stone's throw from Nanaimo city and this will provide visitors with some place to go... a reason to stop in Nanaimo, and a place to camp.

Nanaimo is only just becoming known as a summertime paradise. For some unknown reason—maybe because Nanaimites wanted to keep their amenities to themselves—Nanaimo has never been recognized as a holiday district, but it has plenty of attractions.

No One But Locals

Kanaka Bay on the other side of Newcastle Island provides some of the finest heavy-weight spring salmon fishing on the Island, but practically no one but the locals know about it. Five fingers, just off Departure Bay, provides excellent blueback and coho fishing. There are some 30 or 40 lakes back of Nanaimo, and most of them with trout.

Westwood Lake, which is easily accessible, is only about three miles from town and has been recently developed as a civic park. Brannan and Quenel Lakes, on either side of town, are both good fishing lakes. Nanaimo waters are a yachtsman's dream and there is now a good boat-launching ramp along the waterfront to ward the Black Ball Ferry wharf.

It won't be long before the Nanaimo area is the summer home place of Vancouver Island, if not British Columbia.

It is one of the few areas where waterfront property is still readily available and realtor Frank Ney, who has specialized in development properties, says "summer development lots are selling like mad."

And why shouldn't they? Where else can you buy waterfront lots at $15 down and $15 a month, or have your own summer home built on your lot for $39 down and $39 a month, lot included.

That is what Nanaimo has to offer on the beautiful Gulf Islands, within rowboat distance of Nanaimo Harbor.

Supermarket Method

Mr. Ney, who says he is able to provide property bargains because he applies supermarket techniques to his land development business, last summer subdivided all of Protection Island, in Nanaimo's harbor, into 372 lots. He sold 340 of them in 10 days and now has only about 20 left to sell. Waterfront lots sold for $1,500 at $20 down and $20 a month.

Next summer he will do the same with Wedge Island, near Dodd Narrows, which he has renamed Driftwood Island, and has subdivided into 300 lots which will be offered at $1,200 for a waterfront lot at $15 down and $15 a month, or about $450 for an inside lot at $5 down and $5 a month.

Hundreds of Lots

Mr. Ney's Nanaimo Realty and other real estate firms in Nanaimo are offering hundreds of waterfront lots on Vancouver Island in the Nanaimo area and these are being taken up for both summer homes, and permanent homes for Nanaimo residents.

Newest of the waterfront subdivisions is Allan Armstrong's Dolphin Beach Estates at Lantzville, opposite the Ballenas Islands, 16 miles north of Nanaimo, where 600 lots went on sale Thanksgiving weekend with asking price for waterfront lots between $2,500 and $3,500.

Evans-Finlayson has Morning-Side Beach at Piper's Lagoon, where about 300 acres of choice property will make about 600 lots.

Newcastle Realty has Sherwood Forests subdivision which overlooks Departure Bay and has waterfront lots at from $2,500 to $6,000.

Nanaimo's Mayor Pete Maffeo is well aware of Nanaimo's potential as a holiday recreation district and is already waging a campaign to get that district's attractions opened up and better known.

"We feel the new government ferries have cut down the traffic of the CPR and Black Ball Ferries in Nanaimo, but they certainly haven't hurt our tourist industry," says Nanaimo Chamber of Commerce secretary-manager Russell Dudley.

"We feel Will Hawkins (manager of the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau) is on the right road in making Vancouver Island a Treasure Island," he said.

"The outlook for Nanaimo's tourist industry next year is tremendous," he said.

Holiday Trade Good Despite 'Jobless'

Another 'Mile 0'

This sign erected on Tofino waterfront by federal engineers in 1926 gives west coast community undisputed claim to being the site of "Mile 0" on Trans-Canada Highway according to local residents. Victoria, Esquimalt, have both claimed the distinction. (George Nicholson photo.)

Since 1926

Tofino Claims 'Mile 0'

TOFINO—Victoria and Esquimalt municipal officials can stop squabbling over the location of "Mile 0" on the Trans-Canada Highway right now.

Neither the capital nor its "naval suburb" are entitled to post "Mile 0" signs.

Tofino has been the beginning of the Trans-Canada since 1926 when federal engineers ended their cross-country survey there and erected a sign to prove it.

And if the sign is not sufficient evidence with which to put Victoria and Esquimalt in their proper places, a map of Vancouver Island should prove the clincher.

Tofino is located 120 miles farther west than either of the southern Island points.

Cowichan Municipal Staff Agrees to 'Hold-the-Line'

NORTH COWICHAN—Reeve Donald Morton said yesterday that outside municipal employees have agreed to a new two-year contract without any changes and have "set an example" for others to follow.

The contract maintains a basic wage of $1.81 an hour for laborers, and two weeks holiday between the first and fifth years of employment.

Each year after the fifth there is a day added, until the 10th year when three weeks paid holiday are awarded.

"I hope they are setting an example to other large groups who are demanding higher wages," said Reeve Morton.

Charles E. Latter, president of the Duncan Civic and North Cowichan Outside Union, Local 358, said most of the men took the stand that "we are far from being the lowest paid."

The reeve said yesterday that the council was relieved because "it would appear from preliminary work on next year's budget that total revenue will be down, and now we won't be faced with increased labor costs." The municipality and union also agreed to a "hold-the-line" contract about seven years ago.

500 Fund's Aid 'Real Source of Joy'

Welfare agencies in the Greater Victoria area welcome the contribution made by The Daily Colonist 500 Christmas Fund to Victoria's 500 most needy families each year.

"Through the whole year families on welfare assistance are forced to operate on a bare minimum," said David Woodworth, executive director of the Family and Children's Service. "By easing this close planning the Colonist 500 Fund is a real source of joy. "Most people don't realize how many families are operating in this area at below subsistence level," Mr. Woodworth said. "Money provided by welfare keeps them alive but it doesn't do much more than that. "Development of their personalities is something that must be our concern," he said. "The 500 Fund contributes to their realization of themselves as people." City welfare administrator William Hooson said, "By providing extra money to the 500 needy families the fund enables them to buy things they could not normally buy out of social assistance. It fills the bill for most of our needy families."

Last year the Colonist 500 Fund provided $20.95 for each of the 500 needy families. Donations should be addressed to The Daily Colonist 500 Christmas Fund and mailed or sent to the main office at 2631 Douglas Street or the downtown office at 1215 Broad Street.

CUT OUT DUES CHECK-OFF CONSTRUCTION FIRMS ASK

Labor Act Section Repeal Sought

Representatives of some 700 B.C. construction and contracting firms yesterday asked the provincial government to repeal a section of the Labor Relations Act which authorizes an employer to check-off union dues.

It has been reported the government is considering such legislation for the next session.

YEARLY AUDIT

The B.C. Federation of Construction Associations, in a brief presented to cabinet yesterday, also urged that legislation be passed providing for a compulsory yearly audit for unions and that a copy of the financial statement be sent to each union member.

The federation spokesmen condemned labor agreements which made membership in a trade union a condition of employment and criticized "the fact that elected and paid officers of certain unions are advocating and implementing financial support in one specific area of political activity."

This was in reference to the "marriage" between the CCF and Canadian Labor Congress to give birth to the New Party.

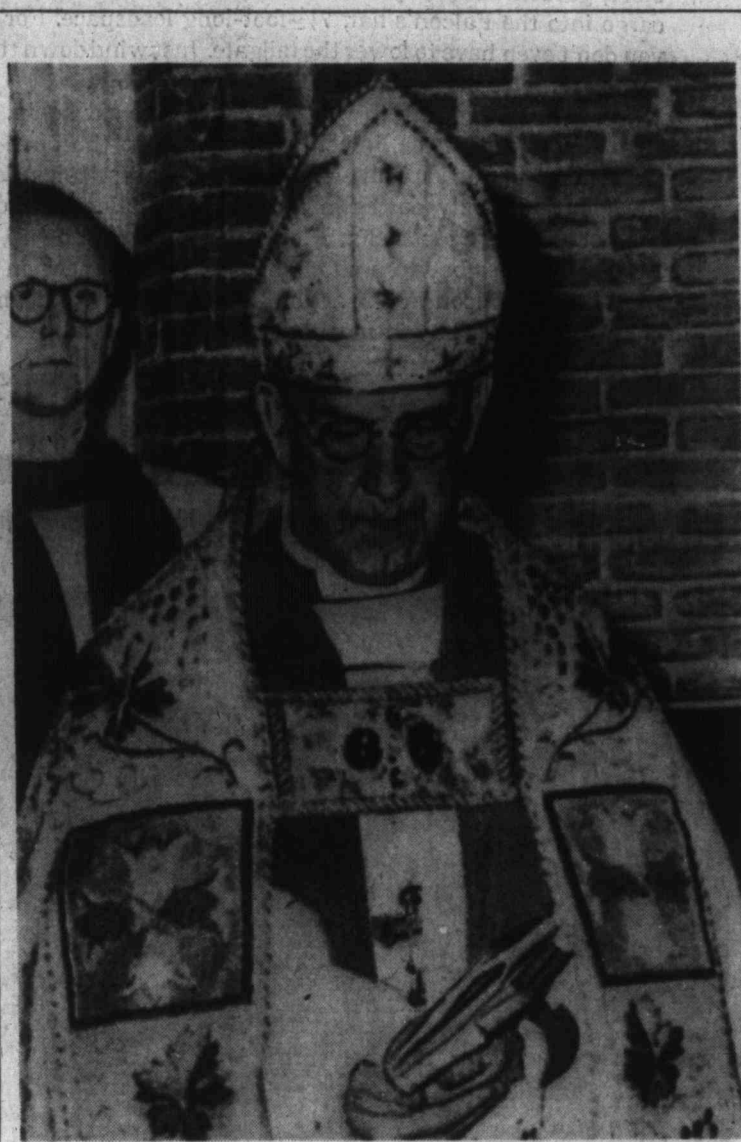

"We contend that political action, financial or otherwise is the prerogative of the individual and that no other individual or group is morally or ethically justified in assuming that membership in a trade union can be interpreted to mean unquestioned support of one specific political party," the brief stated.

MUST MONOR

The section dealing with the check-off of dues reads, in part: "Every employer must honor a written assignment of wages to a trade union."

Provincial government has already cancelled the check-off of dues for members of its B.C. Government Employees' Association because of the association's affiliation with the B.C. Federation of Labor.

The federation, in its brief, also urged appointment of a permanent independent labor relations board and asked that all members of a union be polled in a strike vote rather than allowing a strike to be called on the decision of "those who vote."

Debate Rages On Strike Bill

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons early today concluded a marathon clause-by-clause study of emergency government legislation to avert Saturday's rail strike threat until May 15.

Last Commons hurdle before final passage of the keep-the-trains-running bill will come later today at third and final reading. This phase will open about 9 a.m. PST.

Then the bill must pass the Senate and receive royal assent before it becomes law.

There was little or no doubt the measure would get royal assent in time to stop a railway strike threatened for 8 a.m. Ottawa time Saturday. It was the longest night sitting since the 1956 pipeline debate.

However, the debate on the bill began only Wednesday afternoon and there was no Wednesday night sitting.

Members sat beyond the regular 10 p.m. adjournment Thursday night to clean up clause-by-clause study of the LEOPOLDVILLE (AP)—Col. Joseph Mobutu announced today that his troops have arrested Patrice Lumumba and are bringing him back to Leopoldville.

Britain-U.S. Union Out

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Macmillan told the House of Commons Thursday he isn't thinking in terms of an eventual merger of Britain and the United States.

He was replying to Sir Harry Legge-Bourke, who was alarmed at press reports that Britain is getting ready to be the 51st state of the U.S.

Tempers Wear Thin

Tempers were thin at times and there were a few heated exchanges. But the debate never approached the bitterness of the pipeline marathon.

The Commons finished its business at 1:48 a.m. EST and adjourned until 11 a.m.

At midnight, the eight-clause bill postponing the threatened rail strike until May 15 had survived a Liberal move to kill it at second reading and had moved into a bitter clause-by-clause fight before the third and final reading.

By unanimous agreement, MPs of all parties scrapped the normal 10 p.m. adjournment time in a bid to clean up the detailed study of the bill—a job still unfinished at the start of the new day.

Frank Howard (CCF-Skeena) forced a standing vote on the first clauses of the bill, then proposed an amendment just before midnight that would give the rail workers half of the proposed 14-cent hourly pay boost.

Opposition Swamped

It was defeated by a vote of 92 to 24. He tried again with another amendment calling for longer holidays for long-service railwaymen, a proposal accepted by all three members of the federal conciliation board that studied the dispute.

It, too, went down to defeat—with 28 government members swamping 22 Liberal MPs and four CCF members.

Earlier, the bill cleared second reading—approval in principle—by a vote of 145 to 39. The Liberals, CCF and one New Party member all voted against the bill.

Before that, the government majority overwhelmed by a vote of 146 to 39 an opposition bid to kill the emergency law.

The Liberals and the CCF-New Party group voted for the amendment that would have blocked second reading of the government's bill.

The amendment, proposed by Liberal leader Pearson, contended the legislation imposed a "compulsory and discriminatory" wage freeze on the 111,000 railwaymen still threatening to strike Saturday for higher pay.

The recorded vote came just after 9 p.m. EST—with the strike just 35 hours away.

Blind to Red Peril Senator Says of U.K.

PARIS (Reuters)—United States Senator Thomas J. Dodd (Dem., Conn.) charged Thursday that British intelligence is slack in the search for Communist espionage agents.

He said British security forces never laid hands on "any important Communist agent," and claimed the U.S.

Federal Bureau of Investigation was mainly responsible for the 1950 arrest in Britain of atom spy Klaus Fuchs.

The senator believed the cause of the alleged slackness was "no other reason than a general lack of consciousness of the importance of the Communist danger" in the British public and government.

Sailor Dies After Fall

VANCOUVER (CP)—George Delapelle, a young Greek seaman, was fatally injured late Thursday in a fall aboard a ship anchored in Vancouver harbor.

Officials said the seaman toppled into a hold aboard a Greek freighter. He was rushed to Shaughnessy Hospital but died a short time later.

Loan Plan 'Smacks Of Marx'

OTTAWA (CP)—Senator Arthur Roebuck said Thursday that a government bill to provide federally-guaranteed bank loans to small businesses smacks of Karl Marx.

The Toronto Liberal told the Senate shortly before it gave second reading — approval in principle — to the measure that it is not a function of a democratic government to become involved in the financing of private businesses.

Ottawa May About-Face On Foreign Car Duty Hike

OTTAWA (CP)—The government appears to be setting the stage for a possible reversal of its decision to raise the import valuations of British and European automobiles, back-bench western Conservative MPs said Thursday.

They based this conclusion on a remark by Finance Minister Fleming in the Commons Thursday, following a question asked Wednesday by Ernest Broome (PC-Vancouver South).

IN EFFECT

The question was whether the government would reconsider the new policy—it went into effect Thursday—by which the valuation for duty purposes on imported automobiles is raised.

It was addressed to Revenue Minister Nowlan, whose departmental officials worked out the valuation formula.

Following Mr. Fleming's assurance that the government

"will not tolerate advantage being taken of the Canadian consumer," the back-benchers' interpretation was that the government was opening the door for annulment or drastic modification of its new policy.

Mr. Fleming said "this whole question is under close examination."

British Columbia industries dependent on exports — particularly the forestry industry — argue that any move to make car imports more difficult would harm their important markets in the United Kingdom and West Germany, both major producers of automobiles for export.

Streak Over Victoria Sputnik or Meteor?

Question of whether the Russian animal-carrying spaceship satellite crashed to earth over B.C. was raised by a Royal Oak couple who saw a "clear white light" falling from the sky.

Mr. and Mrs. Doug Crosby, 4517 West Saanich Road, driving home shortly after 1:30 a.m. today saw a "brilliant light in the north, like a magnesium flare," Mr. Crosby said "it was the brightest thing I've ever seen."

The light veered slightly to the left and disappeared about 30 degrees above the horizon, he said.

You CAN Fight City Hall —But You Can't Win

NORTH COWICHAN — A Crofton man is still shaking his head after a session with North Cowichan council in which he won the battle but lost the war over a building permit.

Wiser but sadder, and also poorer, is T. E. Kay who complained vociferously when required to take out a permit for a home remodelling job which involved no structural changes.

In order to hasten a ruling on the justification of the order Reeve Donald Morton suggested Mr. Kay pay the $5 permit charge and then lay a formal complaint before coun-

His plea for redress was so eloquent that councillors decided to relax the provisions of the building bylaw in such cases and ruled that no permits would be required for remodelling—but they also decided that the move couldn't be made retroactive and that Mr. Kay would have to forfeit his $5.
